Eyston's Auto Drags on Ground At 349.8 M.P.H.

On Utah Flats He Controls Car After Partial Breakdown

Skids to Stop

By OTIS J. PUSEY
Associated Press Staff Writer
BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Captain George Eyston rode five miles today with death tugging at his giant racer, Thunderbolt.

While he was attempting to raise his own world land speed record of 357.5 miles per hour, the covering over the two right rear wheels of the car fouled and the machine careened through the measured mile at 349.8 miles per hour, sliding on the back corner of its metal shell like a bobsled.

The car was so badly damaged Eyston said he was through on the flats for the year and would return to England on the liner Queen Mary October 2.

SKIDDED TO STOP

"I had a very bad time," said the retired British army officer said. "The car broke down just as I entered the mile."

"I was then going well over 360 miles per hour. It dragged all the way through, but I kept it under throttle."

"I thought perhaps the car wasn't too badly damaged. But when I let up on the throttle and it skidded to a quick stop three miles short of the north end, I knew my running was over."

A crowd of 6,000 saw Eyston shake off disaster by grimly holding his car under control. Because the rear of the eleven-ton machine was dragging, it sent up great spumes of salt. The straightaway showed a deep gouge.

Eyston's departure from the flats ends the 1938 high speed racing season.

FLOOD WATERS RISE IN U.S.

New England Suffers Heaviest As Rains Drench Atlantic Seaboard

By The Associated Press

Drenching rains which have fallen with more or less regularity for a week lashed the Atlantic seaboard of the United States again today, centering their most destructive force in the New England States, where damage already runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Massachusetts rivers neared 1936 flood levels. Half a dozen bridges had been carried away and industrial plants in Gardner, Athol and Southbridge, flooded by rising waters, were shut down. A nurse, Mrs. Linda Woods, 41, of North Brookfield, was the 15th victim of the New England floods. She was drowned when a dam burst at Doane's Pond, Brookfield, Mass.

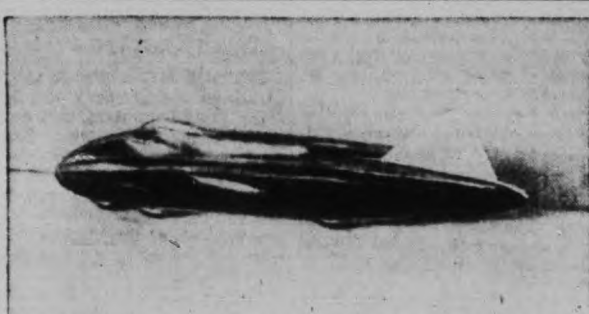

A dam and two bridges at Baldwinville, near Gardner were carried away, and the Boston and Maine Railroad reported five washouts, the worst at Winchendon, Mass., where an engine and two cars were derailed.

Many bridges, dams and state highways were washed out in Connecticut, where rainfall since Saturday was more than twice the normal precipitation for the entire month.

THE WEATHER

VICTORIA, 8 a.m. today—Pressure has risen rapidly over British Columbia and the storm is dissipating over the Far North. The weather has been showery on the coast and also in the northern interior of this province. Fair warm weather continues on the prairie.

NO MORE RACING THIS YEAR — With Capt. George Eyston returning to London from Utah, his record speed car, damaged today on the salt flats, will be laid up at least till next spring. The above picture was taken while Thunderbolt on September 16, at 357.5 miles an hour, was recapturing the world title for Eyston from John R. Cobb, who the day before had traveled 350.2 miles an hour in his car, Railton.

Tobacco Price Combine

Commissioner, in Report to Dominion Government on Investigation, Claims Price Arrangements Not in Public Interest

OTTAWA (CP)—Existence of a price maintenance combine in the Canadian tobacco industry is alleged in a report by F. A. McGregor, commissioner of the Combines Investigation Act, made public today. The report has been presented to Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor.

The commissioner investigated the wholesale distribution of manufactured tobacco products after an application for an inquiry had been received from certain Alberta dealers.

The commissioner finds, however, that agreements sponsored by the Imperial Tobacco Company have had the result of "substantially eliminating price competition in the wholesale and retail distribution of practically all tobacco products throughout Canada, since agreements of this nature have been put into effect by this company not only in Alberta but throughout the Dominion."

The commissioner reports: "A combine within the meaning of the Combines Investigation Act exists in the distribution of tobacco products and the Imperial Tobacco Sales Company of Canada Limited and the Northern Alberta Tobacco and Confectionery Jobbers' Association have been parties and privy to and have knowingly assisted in the formation and operation of this combine."

HEARINGS IN B.C.

Hearings were started in March when witnesses were examined in Edmonton and Vancouver. Other witnesses were heard at Ottawa in April and May.

Mr. Rogers will forward a copy of the report to the Attorney General of Alberta. The Combines Investigation Act, federal legislation, places the responsibility for prosecutions, or other court procedures, arising from the commissioner's reports, if such are deemed advisable, on the Attorney General of the provinces. Whether the present report will be formally submitted to the other provinces is not yet decided.

The commissioner says that in his opinion the Imperial Tobacco Company is primarily responsible for price fixing agreements in Alberta. These agreements contain restrictions as to the size of packages, premiums and other matters.

The restrictions have extended to the products of "so-called independent manufacturers," the report says, who are said to have found that if they sought to increase the number of cigarettes in a package or add premiums or merchandise to their products "the distribution of their products through wholesalers is likely to be impeded."

CONTROL OF SALES

The Imperial Tobacco Company, the reports says, "requires distributors to maintain not only the wholesale and retail prices fixed by the Imperial Tobacco Company but also the prices set by each other tobacco manufacturer, and enforces these requirements by refusing to permit goods of its manufacture to be sold by nonconforming distributors."

The report says: "Not only are all tobacco products in Canada required to be sold to the public at fixed prices, but in the case of the leading class represented by cigarettes, about 95 per cent of all cigarettes are sold in Canada at one identical price to all consumers, with this price enforced regardless of source of manufacture, quantity or any other consideration."

The report adds that while there have been complaints about price control, dealers generally are stated to have found it to their immediate advantage to have guaranteed margins of gross profits and to escape price competition. The consumer, on the other hand, is "deprived of that element of competition among dealers which is his most effective safeguard, and is exposed to the costly elements which are characteristic of non-price competition."

PUBLIC INTEREST

The conclusion of the report is "that the suppression of competition which has been effected in this industry is in itself against the interests of the public, both in its hampering effects on reasonable freedom of enterprise and in the longer-term economic loss to the community arising from such private monopolistic regulation of an important industry."

Spain Loyalists Ban Volunteers

Premier Asks for League Committee to Watch

GENEVA (AP)—Dr. Juan Negrin, Premier of Government Spain, announced today his government had decided on the immediate total withdrawal of all foreign volunteers fighting with government armies.

Premier Negrin asked the League of Nations to appoint an international committee which would go to Spain to verify complete withdrawal.

It was presumed today the Spanish government's decision would mean that the many Canadians fighting in the Spanish war would be sent home.

J. W. Stewart III At Vancouver Home

VANCOUVER (CP)—Major-General John William Stewart, 76-year-old former railway construction contractor and engineer, was in critical condition at his home here today.

Dr. Lyall Hodgins, his physician, said Gen. Stewart had been in ill health for some months and had taken a "bad turn" in the past few days.

No Inquiry on Labor Rioting

Premier Says Subversive Elements Working at Blubber Bay

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier T. D. Pattullo today said his government did not intend to countenance the activities of "some very subversive elements at work" at Blubber Bay, B.C., where the Pacific Lime Company's plant has been subject of a strike for several months.

The strike was called by members of the International Workers of America, an affiliate of John L. Lewis' American Committee for Industrial Organization. Several clashes have occurred between strikers and men still working in the plant which has continued to operate at reduced schedule.

In the last clash, a dozen men were hurt and 18 were arrested. One of the injured men was a British Columbia police constable. The 18 are awaiting trial on various charges.

Strikers and their supporters have charged at meetings here and at Blubber Bay, 80 miles north of here on Texada Island, that British Columbia police had exceeded their authority in some cases and were working in the interests of the company. There have been requests for a commission investigation of police activities, but Mr. Pattullo said today no such inquiry would be held.

The Prime Minister stated that affidavits of complaints had been sent to the Attorney General, where they had been perused by the department. The Premier stated there was nothing in them to justify the appointment of a commission.

URGES FIRMNESS — Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden (above) views the action of the democratic powers in the Czech crisis as leading to confusion.

Eden Says Stand Must Be Taken

Sees Retreat Before Totalitarians Bringing Wider Confusion

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, Eng. (AP)—Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, former Foreign Secretary, declared tonight "the conviction is growing that continued retreat can only lead to ever widening confusion."

Mr. Eden, who left Prime Minister Chamberlain's cabinet just seven months ago yesterday in a protest against dealing with Premier Mussolini of Italy, told the audience at an English-speaking Union dinner:

"The British people know a stand must be made. They pray it be not made too late."

ILL-FOUNDED HOPES

In what was interpreted as a reference to the German-Czechoslovak dispute in which Mr. Chamberlain intervened, the former Foreign Secretary declared:

"There are some people who believe if immediate issues can somehow be resolved without resort to force, the ambitions of all powers of Europe then will have largely met and the crisis is over."

"I can find no justification for such hopes, which seem to me ill-founded."

NEAR ABYSS

Warning against delusion, Mr. Eden continued: "The truth is that each recurrent crisis brings us nearer to war. We slither closer to the abyss. During the last weeks it must have seemed to many that we have been on the very brink." He recalled "several warnings I have felt obliged to give against optimistic forecasts as to the international outlook," and said:

"I told you such optimism was unfounded. I wish my forebodings could have been falsified, but unhappily, the international situation now is far worse than it was six months ago and it is still steadily deteriorating."

Czechs Give Up Under Pressure

Ministry Accepts Plan to Cede Sudeten Areas to Germany As Price of Peace, Saying Changes Still Subject of Negotiations

PRAGUE (AP)—The Czechoslovak government announced officially at 7:25 p.m. (10:25 a.m. P.S.T.) today its acceptance of the British-French plan for meeting the peace terms of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

The decision came at the end of three days of fateful discussion of the proposals agreed on by British and French leaders in London as the price for maintaining peace in Europe.

The news of the capitulation came to Czechoslovaks by radio broadcasts carried through loudspeakers in the crowded streets of Prague.

The announcement said Czechoslovakia's final decision to yield to the British-French plan had been communicated by Foreign Minister Kamil Krofka to the British and French Foreign Ministers at 5 p.m. (8 a.m. P.S.T.).

ADVISED BY FRIENDS

A communique was issued from the office of Premier Milan Hodza at the same time as the announcement was broadcast.

It said the proffered solution of the Czechoslovak-German dispute was accepted at the urgent representation of France and Britain.

"Our friends to whom we have been attached for 20 years advised us to secure peace by making territorial sacrifices," it said.

"Czechoslovakia suggested a settlement by judgment of the International Court, but that suggestion was rejected."

"What is to be lost is still the subject of negotiations. Your government in the interests of peace decided to make some sacrifices to avoid suffering and the loss of its whole existence."

"Czechoslovakia was threatened with violence," the statement said. "Destruction of the state was threatened."

It declared the changes to be worked out in the Sudeten German region to be ceded to Germany still were the subject of negotiations.

At the moment, it said, nothing in the structure of the nation and its administrative machinery was changed.

"Existing laws prevail, all officials retain their positions," it continued. "Normal functions of the state carry on."

The announcement intimated a vast amount of details to regulate the transfer of Sudetenland to Hitler's greater Germany must be settled by international discussion.

There was no suggestion of the amount of territory to be ceded to Germany, nor which of the Bohemian territories were to be declared autonomous within the Czechoslovak state.

Redraw Map of Europe

Czech Acceptance Clears Way For Chamberlain-Hitler Talk at Godesberg Tomorrow

LONDON—The Prague ministry's acceptance of the British-French peace plan which means loss of their Sudeten regions armed Prime Minister Chamberlain with final authority for redrawing the map of Europe to-morrow in his conference with Chancellor Hitler at Godesberg.

Mr. Chamberlain gained approval of the full cabinet for his proposals this afternoon and they will be placed before the British as Britain's plan for preventing future wars.

Considerable opposition arose to Chamberlain's almost single-handed effort to appease the German dictator, especially from labor and left wing officials.

The Scottish Transport and

General Workers' Union, meeting at Glasgow, passed a resolution against "this shameful betrayal and grave departure from declared British policy," and expressed their "profound sympathy" for the Czech people.

The Foreign Office became the busiest place in London, operating on a 24-hour schedule. All day long ambassadors and ministers called there, among them the Polish and Hungarian envoys to tell of their government's demands for the return of Czechoslovakia's minorities to them.

Another caller was Count Dino Grandi, the Italian ambassador, whose Il Duce has given the world notification he is on Hitler's side.

RETIREMENT OF CHAMBERLAIN HINT

Prime Minister to Address Constituents On October 14

LONDON (CP)—Political circles were stirred today, by an announcement that Prime Minister Chamberlain would address his constituents in the Edgbaston division of Birmingham October 14. The announcement immediately gave rise to speculation that the 69-year-old Prime Minister, tired by 16 months of continuous crises, might be planning to retire after completing his peace negotiations with Hitler.

British Fleet in East Mediterranean

Visits of War Vessels To Bulgaria and Roumania Canceled

LONDON (CP)—The Admiralty announced today the Mediterranean fleet had canceled courtesy visits to Bulgarian and Roumanian ports and was being "concentrated for exercises in the eastern Mediterranean."

The Admiralty spokesman refused to give reasons for the change of plans.

Several British warships on a visit to Istanbul, scheduled to last until September 23, were called away hurriedly when the commander-in-chief issued sailing orders at dawn.

Czech Bond Prices Slump in London

LONDON (AP)—Czechoslovak government and municipal bonds fell 15 to 16 points in the market today after British news agencies reported the Prague government had capitulated to the British-French demand for a cession of Sudetenland to Germany.

Prague Crowds Demonstrate as Decision Known

Army Officers Cheered in Streets; Outbreaks Feared

Leaders Urge Calm

PRAGUE (AP)—Whether Prague in particular and Czechoslovakia in general would accept the new state of affairs with the calmness and discipline which the government asked, remained a big question an hour after the announcement that Sudeten areas would be ceded to Germany.

Crowds began parading through the streets of the capital, shouting and milling about.

During the broadcast of the announcement silence fell over crowds, which earlier had been demonstrating in the streets.

Then, in a few minutes, excitement spread like wildfire through the streets.

The government's announcement included a plea to the populace to maintain discipline. Soldiers particularly were asked to remain calm.

"Workers, farmers, employees, soldiers, keep steady nerves," the appeal said.

"Do not shirk your ordinary duties. Do your job while your authorized officials strive to assure saving the state and to serve the peace of Europe."

"The state needs strength. It needs a demonstration of your confidence in it."

"By violence nothing can be solved. Excitement now may injure the Republic."

"The protection of all citizens is assured. Avoid violence, do not lose courage. Be true to your country and to yourself, and you will be victorious."

It was declared Czechoslovak government had seen no way out but to yield to what the communique called "dynamic political forces" which were sweeping over Europe.

"The action was taken at the well-meaning advice of its friends and allies," the government stated.

But the communique ended on a note of confidence for the future.

"It is the beginning of a new period in the history of the country," it said.

Before the official announcement, crowds in the main streets were excited. Shouts were heard of "Rather war" and "We want dictatorship." Taxicabs bearing army officers were applauded heartily. A crowd of 5,000 demonstrators marched through the city. They cried, "Long live the Army," "Long live Czechoslovakia."

CHAMBERLAIN TO FLY TOMORROW

British Premier Will Take Off in Morning For Meeting With Hitler

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain will board a plane at 10 a.m. (1 a.m. P.S.T.) tomorrow at Heston airfield, from where he will travel to Godesberg for his second conference with Chancellor Hitler of Germany on the Czechoslovakian problem.

Announcement of the Prime Minister's plans was made today. He will stop at Cologne, Germany, for luncheon en route. He is expected to arrive at Godesberg at 3 p.m. (6 a.m. P.S.T.).

Accompanying Mr. Chamberlain will be Sir Horace Wilson, diplomatic adviser; William Strang, chief of the central European department of the Foreign Office; Sir William Malkin, legal adviser to the Foreign Office; and G. P. Humphreys-Davies, one of the Prime Minister's private secretaries.

The cabinet met for one hour and 55 minutes in a session today devoted to a final survey of the situation before the Prime Minister's departure tomorrow. The Prime Minister arranged two other meetings, one with the King and the other with Rt. Hon. Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition, and Rt. Hon. Arthur Greenwood, deputy Labor leader, to report on his plans.

WHAT GERMANY GETS—The map above gives an approximate idea of the territory in Czechoslovakia which will be ceded to Germany under the Anglo-French peace plan which the Czechs today accepted. The dark areas are Sudeten territory where Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler claims

3,500,000 Sudeten Germans have been persecuted. They take their name from the Sudetic Mountains on the north border. Besides the border area, there are patchy spots in Czechoslovakia that are largely German and shown in black. Just what their fate is to be remains unknown until final details of the peace plan are made public.

Cedar Markets Under Discussion

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hon. W. J. Assestine, British Columbia's Minister of Trade and Industry, today was conferring with officials of various sawmills here in an effort to find means of increasing sales of cedar lumber, especially in the domestic market.

While here, Mr. Assestine, also Minister of Mines, will confer with other organizations regarding amendments to the Mineral Act, which are proposed for the next session of the British Columbia Legislature. The chief amendments under consideration deal with security of title.

Czech Shake-up Rumored Possible

Chamberlain's Task
Now to Get Hitler to Guarantee Boundaries

LONDON (CP)—There were disquieting reports today of possible internal trouble in Czechoslovakia as a result of the capitulation of President Eduard Benes and Premier Milan Hodza to the international pressure upon them.

There were rumors the Czechoslovak general staff might be so enraged by surrender as to attempt to establish a military dictatorship.

Acceptance by the Czechs of the way for Prime Minister Chamberlain to confer with Chancellor Hitler at Godesberg tomorrow. But it does not remove one of the biggest question marks of the whole long, complicated diplomatic manoeuvring—will Mr. Chamberlain be able to persuade Hitler to join other nations in giving a territorial guarantee which is one of the terms of the Anglo-French plan.

GOING TOO FAR?

There is a growing belief in some quarters here that Hitler—having gained the Sudeten areas as he demanded—may overplay his hand. On the other hand, he may be content with "rescuing" his fellow Germans who, he has claimed, were being persecuted by the Czech majority.

To persuade Hitler to join the other powers in a guarantee may be Mr. Chamberlain's biggest task at Godesberg. Only in that way can the Fuehrer demonstrate to the world his objective was to repatriate the Sudeten Germans and not to break up the Czech state.

CHAMBERLAIN AND BALDWIN CONFER

Reported Baldwin Says
Anthony Eden's
Stand Was Right

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain, after conferring with key ministers throughout this morning, had lunch with Earl Baldwin.

Observers interpreted the meeting as a sign Mr. Chamberlain at the crisis of his career wished to consult his predecessor before going before a full cabinet meeting this afternoon to arrange final details of his mission to Godesberg to talk with Hitler tomorrow on the Sudeten-Czech settlement.

Lord Baldwin is said to have revealed to friends that he thought Anthony Eden right and Mr. Chamberlain wrong in the disagreement over the "appeasement" policy which led to Mr. Eden's resignation as Foreign Secretary last February 20.

Litvinoff Says Offer Ignored

Declares Russia Would Have Aided Czechs
With Other Powers

GENEVA (AP)—Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Russia's Foreign Commissar, today accused France and Great Britain of capitulating to Chancellor Hitler's demands and disclosed they had ignored Russia's offer of military help to protect Czechoslovakia.

The Foreign Commissar, in a scathing denunciation of the League of Nations powers, said Russia stood ready to back up any collective action in defence of Czechoslovakia with arms and men.

In what he left unsaid, however, Assembly delegates saw a statement that unless France fights for Czechoslovakia under the terms of the French-Czechoslovak agreement, Soviet Russia would do nothing to help Prague.

He accused Great Britain and France of avoiding a "probabilistic war today in return for a certain and large-scale war tomorrow."

Russia's spokesman said the price the two western democracies were considering paying to prevent war over Czechoslovakia was "satisfying the appetites of insatiable aggressors by the destruction and mutilation of sovereign states."

WAR DEPARTMENT READY

Litvinoff declared "our war department is ready immediately to participate in conference with representatives of the French and Czechoslovak war departments in order to discuss measures appropriate to the moment."

"Independently of this, we consider it desirable that the questions be raised at the League of Nations if only as yet under article XI, with the object of first mobilizing public opinion and secondly as ascertaining the position of other nations whose passive aid might be extremely valuable."

He said this Russian stand was framed and sent to the Czechoslovak government two days ago and to France a few days before the League Assembly met September 12.

Litvinoff said that at that time his government added:

"We intend to fulfil our engagements under our treaty with Czechoslovakia and together with France to give assistance to Czechoslovakia by means open to us."

The Soviet representative said it was not Moscow's fault if no effort had been given to its proposals.

"Unfortunately," he declared, "other steps were taken which have led and which could not but lead to such capitulation as is sound, sooner or later, to have incalculable and disastrous consequences."

"CERTAIN WAR TOMORROW"

"To avoid problematic war today and receive in return certain and large scale war tomorrow—moreover at the price of satisfying the appetites of insatiable aggression and of destruction and mutilation of sovereign states—is not to act in the spirit of the covenant of the League."

"To grant bonuses for sabre rattling and recourse to arms for the solution of international problems, in other words to reward and encourage super-imperialism, is not to act in the spirit of the Briand-Kellogg Pact."

Litvinoff said his government was proud it had taken no part in such a policy.

Litvinoff started his address with a bitter indictment of what the League had failed to do for China, Ethiopia and Spain and declared it was "the criminal fault" of the heads of member states.

He declared the "League of Nations is still strong enough to stop aggression by collective action," and expressed a belief it could stop Hitler, if he attempted to seize Czechoslovakia by force.

Litvinoff disclosed that immediately after German absorption of Austria the Moscow government had approached other European great powers "with a proposal for immediate collective deliberation on the possible consequences of the event."

Moscow, he said, had desired to adopt collective measures.

He said to Russia's regret this proposal "did not receive its just appreciation," and added if it had been carried out it might have saved the world from alarm over the fate of Czechoslovakia.

Roumania Is Fearful

Wonders Where Germany's Drive Eastward Will Be Stopped
By Powers

By MAURICE NEGRE
Havas News Agency Correspondent

BUCHAREST — Roumania — first nation exposed to Germany after Czechoslovakia—would like to know what strategic line Great Britain and France have decided to take to resist the Reich's "drive to the east" and when they intend to say a firm "No!" to Germany.

Only then will Bucharest be able to formulate its policy, high

Roumanian circles indicated today.

Soviet aid apparently presents risks Roumania would not like to run at the moment. Italy, in the eyes of observers here, has become a German vassal.

In the veering winds of the present crisis the Bucharest government can only maintain an attitude of "watchful waiting."

Mindful of its German-Hungarian minorities and of the fact the "drang nach Osten" may lead Chancellor Hitler to the coveted Roumanian wheat and oil.

Ontario Mental Home Inquiry

Miss Winnifred Green
Heard Today as Witness at London

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Miss Winnifred Green, Cleveland librarian, sister of John R. Green, former Victoria, B.C., resident testified today at the Ontario government's Royal Commission inquiry into mental hospitals.

Green's charges brought about the inquiry.

Miss Green, told the commission she visited Green, August 9, the day after he was returned to the Ontario Hospital from a "boarding out" house. She said Green told her he had been returned on the grounds he had been drinking, which she denied.

Miss Green said she interviewed Dr. G. W. Stevenson, head of the Ontario Hospital now under suspension, about the case and was told her brother was "a chronic, manic depressive."

"I said that was only one man's opinion and that my brother should be given the opportunity to prove otherwise," she said.

She quoted Dr. Stevenson as saying Green "could be very dangerous to him and that he could ruin his reputation."

The witness said she suggested her brother be taken to another institution, but Dr. Stevenson demurred, saying, "even in that case he could broadcast his complaints."

Miss Green had tried to obtain Green's release although she could not take financial responsibility for him. She said she expressed the opinion Green's wife should look after him. Finally she said, Dr. Stevenson agreed to have him discharged.

REFERS TO LETTERS

To Dr. Stevenson's lawyer, A. M. LeBel, Miss Green said letters from her brother indicated he felt bitter toward Dr. Stevenson and the hospital.

"He felt he was held here because Dr. Stevenson was afraid to let him go," she said.

LeBel produced a letter dated in August, 1937, in which Miss Green wrote to Dr. Stevenson about "hectic correspondence" she had with her brother while he was a patient in the hospital.

The letter was part of Green's hospital file and Commissioner W. H. Avery objected to its being produced on the grounds this file was for a time in Dr. Stevenson's possession after his suspension.

"What assurance have we that those files are exactly the same as when they left the hospital?" Dr. Avery asked.

"What assurance do you want?" LeBel replied. "I'll give you an affidavit."

Commissioner Counsel Eric Silk said he had no objection to the letter.

Adjournment was taken briefly and Chairman Clifford Macgown ruled that while the whole file might not be placed on record individual letters or papers it contained might be introduced if proved by individual witnesses, like the letter being proved by Miss Green.

LeBel still objected to what he termed the "insinuation" of Dr. Avery that the Green file had been tampered with.

Dr. Avery said he did not think either LeBel or Dr. Stevenson had tampered with the records, but believed Dr. Stevenson's possession of them was "irregular."

LeBel said the file was necessary in the preparation of Dr. Stevenson's defence.

LeBel agreed to proceed under the commission ruling, reserving the right to press objection later.

COULD NOT BELIEVE

Miss Green, questioned again about the letter to Dr. Stevenson, admitted writing that she could not believe her brother was as well as he said he was. This opinion was based on "what people were saying in St. Thomas about him."

Later, Miss Green wrote Dr. Stevenson for another report on her brother, expressing the opinion, "I cannot understand why a person not criminally insane should be detained so long." She still felt the same way.

Dr. A. McCausland of the hospital staff replied to this letter, stating Green was in a boarding home, receiving good care.

Miss Green said she knew nothing about the finances of her brother's family when Lebel suggested it was Mrs. Green who had supported the family since 1933.

Miss Green recalled visits to her brother in St. Thomas after he moved there from Victoria, where he practised law.

"If he said he was making $75,000 a year out there would you believe him?" Lebel asked.

"Well, they had a lovely home."

"Were they happily married when he made that kind of money?" Commissioner Lionel Conacher asked.

"I believe so," the witness replied.

While in St. Thomas, the witness said, Green had been depressed at times and preferred to sit in the garden when there were many people in the house.

Troops Moving In Germany

Trucks Rush Soldiers
As Final Act in Czech Drama Comes

BERLIN (AP)—A continuous stream of motor trucks rumbled through Berlin and eastern sections of Germany today, rushing troops to an undisclosed destination.

Germany apparently was getting ready for the final act in the Czech drama—a triumphal entry, with swastika flags, into Sudetenland.

The movement in Berlin, where trucks requisitioned from commercial firms were used to carry soldiers, was typical of what was reported throughout Germany, especially in the eastern sections, including Austria, which surrounds Czechoslovakia's western end.

Chancellor Hitler at Munich, prepared to leave for Godesberg, near Cologne, where he is scheduled to meet Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain for a second time tomorrow.

To Germany today it no longer was a question of whether big slices of the Czechoslovak state should be lopped off, but whether Czechoslovakia should be permitted to continue its existence.

Mr. Chamberlain, according to German opinion, had the task of ending Czechoslovakia's independence.

The newspaper Essener National-Zeitung, organ of Field Marshal Hermann Goering, reminded Mr. Chamberlain that Germany could have done the job alone.

CHURCHILL SEES ACT SURRENDER

LONDON (AP)—Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill declared tonight that "the partition of Czechoslovakia under Anglo-French pressure amounts to complete surrender by the western democracies to the Nazi threat of force."

In a statement issued after his return from an airplane trip to Paris, Mr. Churchill said:

"Acceptance of Herr Hitler's terms involves a prostration of Europe before the Nazi power of which the fullest advantage certainly will be taken."

"The idea that safety can be purchased by throwing a small state to the wolves is a fatal delusion."

"Parliament should be called without further delay."

Fernie Mine Deaths Inquiry

Two Men in Hospital
After "Bump"
Which Killed Three

FERNIE, B.C. (CP)—A party of miners and company officials today probed through No. 1 east mine of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company at nearby Coal Creek where a "bump" yesterday brought death to three miners and trapped four others for hours. Two of the trapped men were injured seriously, one possibly fatally.

The 24 men of the afternoon shift had just entered the tunnel when the "bump" rumbled through the workings with an intensity felt here, five miles distant, where residents first surmised an earthquake.

Seventeen of the shift, bruised and shocked, made their way safely to the tunnel mouth, where rescue operations were started immediately.

Miners found the bodies of William Brown, 63, brattice man, and Thomas Manning, 53, miner. Both apparently had been killed instantly.

William Green, 50, pipefitter, was brought out on a stretcher and believed at first to have suffered only a fracture of one leg, but he died en route from the mine to the emergency hospital.

TWO IN HOSPITAL

Thomas Biddulph, 55, and Joe Pallone, 45, miners, were dug out and brought to the hospital here, where Biddulph is believed so badly injured he may not recover. Pallone is given a chance of recovery.

The others trapped, Luigi Schianni and James Roberts, apparently suffered only shock and bruises.

Schianni, released after seven hours' entombment, refused the aid of a stretcher when released and walked the two miles to the surface, where he recovered and returned to join the rescue crew until Biddulph was rescued.

As the rescuers worked to free Schianni and Pallone with whom they could talk, there was an accumulation of gas, and dragsmen from Coal Creek and Fernie stood by.

LEAVE FAMILIES
The dead were all Fernie residents. Brown is survived by a widow, two sons and two daughters; Green by a widow and three sons, and Manning by a widow now in Scotland.

Biddulph, a widower, is survived by married daughters.

Company officials said damage was not believed extensive, but it occurred at a critical point and the workings will be closed down indefinitely.

A notice was posted at midnight: "Mines closed until further notice."

Chief inspector of mines for British Columbia, James Dickson, left Victoria last night for the scene and a government investigation may be delayed pending return of Resident Inspector H. E. Miard, touring Windermere and Columbia Valley mines.

Coroner Robert Duthie called an inquest for today, then asked adjournment.

"Bumps," constant threat in many mines, are caused by what is technically known as "overburden."

Yesterday's was much more intense than any experienced in this East Kootenay coal mine region previously. Fernie residents said the earth shook with a swaying motion similar to a tremor, for five seconds.

It was the third serious mine accident in Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company operations of the district in less than a year.

Just a little more than two months ago, on July 5, three men were killed when lightning traveled 3,900 feet along rails into the Michel Mine and set off a gas explosion. Last October the surface workings of the same mine, 25 miles northeast of here, were destroyed by fire with damage set at $500,000.

Fires Sweep Big Alberta Districts

EDMONTON (CP)—Bringing the total to five areas reporting large bush fires, the Beaver Crossing district, south of Cold Lake, was being swept today by a blaze which originated in Saskatchewan and burned its way across the provincial border.

At all districts the provincial forestry branch reported the blazes were under control.

G. F. PEARSON, K.C., DIES IN HALIFAX

Former Publisher
Of Chronicle
Passes in 61st Year

HALIFAX (CP)—G. Fred Pearson, K.C., eminent lawyer and former publisher of the Halifax Chronicle, died at his home here today after a long illness. He would have been 61 October 6.

Besides the widow, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Charles Beckwith, Sydney, N.S., and Mary Elizabeth at home, and one son, Benjamin Franklin in London. Mrs. F. B. McCurdy of Halifax is a sister.

Mr. Pearson was born at Truro, N.S., the son of Benjamin Franklin Pearson, and his wife, formerly Miss Julia Reading. He attended a private school at Halifax and graduated from Dalhousie Law School in 1900. A legal expert on legislation concerning public utilities, he played a prominent part in the formation of laws bringing sale and distribution of gasoline under the jurisdiction of the Nova Scotia Public Utilities Board.

On the death of his father in 1912 Mr. Pearson succeeded him as publisher of the Morning Chronicle and Daily Echo. From then until he sold the papers in 1926, he played a prominent part in Maritime journalism. He had, in 1909, formed the Eastern Press Association, the first Canadian co-operative news gathering agency east of the Great Lakes. Eight years later he was prominent in organization of the Canadian Press Limited as the national co-operative news gathering and distributing organization.

Judge Appointed

OTTAWA (CP)—J. S. Sniley, K.C., Amherst, N.S., was appointed to the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia. It was learned following the regular weekly cabinet meeting yesterday. He fills the vacancy created by the death of Mr. Justice Hugh Ross. Law partner of H. J. Logan, now Senator Logan, he first practised here in association with Hon. J. L. Ralston, former Minister of National Defence, and J. A. Hanway, K.C.

Churches Propose Employment Plan

Research Committee Advocates Non-partisan
Commission in Canada

TORONTO—Recommendation that a nonpartisan National Employment Commission corresponding to the traffic commission be established by the federal government is contained in the report to be presented to the General Council of the United Church of Canada opening today by the Economic and Social Research Commission.

The commission suggests that the present unsatisfactory condition created by the multiplicity of authorities and departmental responsibilities in public welfare administration of Ottawa be corrected by having all such work placed in the care of one department of the federal government.

Further, the commission suggests that the financial and administrative functions in any plan of unemployment aid be united under the same governmental authority, and that the administration of public aid be the responsibility of municipal government, under the supervision of its provincial authority. The commission recommends to the General Council that the federal government administer a national old age pension, as soon as constitutional changes permit and similarly assume responsibility for the proposed unemployment insurance and other contributory social insurance plans, if, as and when same become operative.

Youth Training Program Grows

OTTAWA (CP)—With particular emphasis on placement features, the Dominion-provincial youth training program for the present fiscal year is making excellent progress, the federal labor department reports.

"Approximately 50,000 Canadians between the ages laid down in agreements with the provinces have profited by the program," said the department in a statement yesterday.

"The exact figures are: Men, 32,361; women, 23,156; or a total of 55,517. Last year the amount voted by Parliament was $1,000,000. This year the Dominion contribution is in the neighborhood of $1,500. Provinces contribute on a 50-50 basis to the expenditure."

Progress Made in Trade Pact Talks

OTTAWA (AP)—Proposals brought from Washington by the Canadian mission negotiating for revision of the Canada-United States trade agreement were considered yesterday by the cabinet, but no details were announced.

Following the regular weekly meeting, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of National Resources, acting in place of Prime Minister King who is ill, said the Canadian negotiations were "pretty well advanced," but he would make no forecast as to when the new agreement would be signed.

It is understood negotiations for an Anglo-American agreement, carried on simultaneously with those between Canada and United States, have a definite connection with the Canadian agreement and may delay its conclusion.

Pope Calls for Prayers for Peace

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope Pius, who chose the name for his Pontificate hoping it would be an era of peace, today asked all Catholic churches of Rome to devote an hour next Sunday to prayers for peace.

The Pontiff instructed all churches of the city to hold an hour of adoration for the purpose.

"We place our hopes in the mercy of God. We hope all these threats and fears which hang over Europe may disappear," he was quoted as telling a group of French pilgrims he received earlier today.

Giving Reich Sudeten Area May Inspire More Conquests

Together with areas around Eupen and Malmédy in Belgium, the shaded areas on the map show territory lost by Germany in the World War which Nazis dream of returning to the Reich. If Germany regained them, France would lose Alsace-Lorraine, Denmark the North Schleswig area and Lithuania the important seaport district around Memel. The Polish Corridor would once more be the German provinces of Pomerania and Posen, and Poland would also lose the rich mining section of Upper Silesia.

LONDON—When Adolf Hitler acquires the Sudeten German regions of Czechoslovakia, the first great, crucial step will have been taken in the Nazi dream of annexing all lands bordering the Reich where Germans dwell.

The Nazi propaganda department long ago put forth the claim that wherever there are Germans, they must belong to the Reich and must acknowledge Hitler as their Fuehrer. They long ago published maps showing the territory contiguous to the Reich that some day must be made German.

If Czechoslovakia is thrown to Germany, this may, instead of bringing peace to Europe, be the first chapter in a long story of crises. For what might work in Czechoslovakia, the Nazis would attempt elsewhere.

The Sudeten German case is an exact laboratory case. Before the Nazi advent to power, the Sudeten Germans outwardly were content. There were no walls about mistreatment. With the coming of the Nazis, all was changed. Nazi agents organized the Sudeten Germans. Nazi money paid for halls, speech-makers, literature. Every incident in which a Czech quarreled with a Sudeten became an international political issue.

As a matter of fact no German inside Germany enjoys the liberty which the Sudetens enjoy. The Czech "oppressors" have allowed them freedom of speech, of assembly, of press. They have had their own parties, their own German language newspapers. They have elected their own deputies to the national parliament and freely attack the government of the day in speeches.

NEW CLAIMS PLANNED

If Sudeten German territory is lost by Czechoslovakia, it is almost certain that new campaigns will at once begin.

For instance, by plebiscite after the war the people of North Schleswig voted to return to Denmark, from which their territory was taken by force when Prussia made bitter war on the little country in 1864. Ever since the Nazis have come to power, they have been planning Nazis in North Schleswig by the simple method of buying up farms at fancy prices. They have bombarded the people with radio propaganda.

They are laying the groundwork for a claim that North Schleswig is German and should be returned to the Reich.

Next on the list would be Eupen, with 400 square miles and 40,000 people, and Malmédy, with 318 square miles and 37,000 people. The peace treaties added these small bits of territory to Belgium. Here, too, Nazi propaganda has been busy. The territory would bring Germany much nearer to Liege and Namur and other important fortified Belgian towns and so have a strategical value.

To the east lies the little, nominal republic of Lithuania. After the war the allied powers gave to Lithuania the former German seaport town of Memel and its immediate hinterland, in all some 300 square miles with 50,000 people. Every time Lithuania unites with the Nazis, the German press starts a thumping campaign.

AND STILL MORE

But the European tour is not yet complete. When the independent state of Poland was set up by the peace treaties, the provinces of Posen and Polish Pomerania were taken from Germany and given to Poland. So she could have a way to the sea, Poland was given the Polish Corridor, 260 miles long and 80 miles broad. This corridor cuts off Prussia from the rest of Germany—a sore in every Nazi heart. Poland was given practical control of the free city of Danzig—formerly German. The fate of

Ottawa's Caution During Crisis Seen Justified

Demagogic Statements Eschewed, But Sentiment Preserved

By NORMAN MACLEOD
OTTAWA—Spite of views to the contrary which are urged from certain influential quarters, the predominant view on Parliament Hill is that nothing that Mr. King could have said during the crisis of the last few days could have improved the situation, and that the Prime Minister's silence has been as admirable in this as it was in the abdication crisis several months ago.

This, at any rate, is the conviction which ministerial circles hold, and they argue it even against the attempt of the Toronto Globe and Mail to be more Imperialistic than Ontario and prod the government into losing a minute in convening a Cabinet Council and assuring Mr. Chamberlain, as Australia already did, of 100 per cent support in any action which he might take.

While recognizing that such a message would carry the support of the Imperialism which represents the fundamental, underlying sentiment of the Dominion, ministerial circles ask if it would constitute the course of wisdom? They contend that it would not, and their argument in defence of Mr. King's present silence runs somewhat as follows:

UNITY FIRST ESSENTIAL

Realizing the ever-present possibility that the crisis might have eventuated in war, there was no service which Mr. King could render the Empire comparable to the maintenance of national unity in Canada against the possible event of a united national effort being required from the Canadian people in the defence of Empire. While majority sentiment in Canada undoubtedly would applaud a statement of 100 per cent Imperialism, there is a minority in the Dominion which is strongly opposed in principle to any advance commitments in overseas wars. That minority is not necessarily unpatriotic nor unprepared to reach its final decision on the merits of the specific issue which may arise. It is wholly conceivable that if it can be convinced not only of the justice of the British cause, but also that the Imperial authorities exhausted every possible resource which might bring peace before taking the fatal plunge, they would support any British decision wholeheartedly.

Would it have been wise, then, to have ridden roughshod over this minority and alienate it irrevocably in advance of the time of actual crisis? Liberal Government sources contend that such a course would have been highly demagogic and thoroughly unjustifiable. Mr. King, they contend, performed a service of highest imperial importance in maintaining national unity in Canada right up to the time at which the decision of peace or war was made.

SENTIMENT PREPARED

In this regard ministerial circles are anxious to point out the careful manner in which the Prime Minister had been preparing even the most extreme national sentiment which exists in the Dominion to rally to the British cause if the ultimate occasion should arise. When Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain flew to Germany to confer with Hitler, Mr. King issued a formal statement. The real reason for that statement, his colleagues declare, was to emphasize the lengths to which British diplomacy was prepared to go in its effort to preserve world peace. By applauding Chamberlain's mission so enthusiastically, the Canadian Prime Minister is credited by his associates on Parliament Hill with paving the way for 100 per cent support from Canada to the Empire if the Chamberlain mission had failed.

NO DEMAGOGUERY

There has certainly been nothing demagogic about the Liberal chieftain's Imperialism since the present crisis developed. The contention in federal ministerial circles, however, is that although the Prime Minister's Imperialism may not be demagogic, it is at least ineffective. If war had come there would have been a unity of purpose in the Dominion, it is claimed, which would not have existed if Mr. King had pursued a course of less discretion in order to appeal to majority sentiment, reckless of the seeds of antagonism which he might sow among an important minority.

There is a final count in respect to which the Globe and Mail's editorial attack upon Mr.

King is coming under condemnation from government circles. That is in respect to its possible usefulness as propaganda in Germany. The suggestion is that the editorials will probably be cabled to Germany, where they will be accepted as evidence of lukewarmth on Canada's part towards the cause of Empire. Liberal circles contend that such an impression must be wholly false. No statesman, they assert, is showing a more careful regard for the real interests of the Empire than Mr. King is at the present time. They are confident that when the history of the crisis which the Empire has been facing is written in perspective, the record will attest the real service rendered the Motherland by Canada under the leadership of the present administration.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1938

Die Wacht am Rhein

IT WOULD NOT BE SURPRISING IF imaginative tourist travel promoters will want to know how Bad Godesberg "worked" tomorrow's meeting between Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Prime Minister Chamberlain. There was nothing much in the first conference for Berchtesgaden. The setting is beautiful. Nature in all her majesty beckons from the Bavarian Alps; but the village itself, with its 4,000 inhabitants, puts chief claim to importance in its toy-making industry. Not so with Godesberg. It is a watering-place in its own right—celebrated for its chalybeate springs—a favorite residential community of the industrial magnates from the Rhinish manufacturing centres, proud of a population which has grown from about 5,000 at the beginning of the century to 25,000.

And Bad Godesberg is en fete. Its romantic atmosphere is stirred by Union Jacks and Swastikas. The jollification will spread over the 20 miles which separate this pleasant spot from Cologne. Bonn, only an hour's walk away, will doubtless be gay. And on the other side of the great water-way lies Koenigswinter and the Siebengebirge—the seven mountains, one of which is Drachenfels, immortalized by Byron in his "Childe Harold's Pilgrimage"—a popular holiday resort of wide renown. In these peaceful surroundings the recognized head of totalitarianism in all its sinister glory and a leader in the Old World of what is left of European democracy will meet. They will watch the sun go down over the twin spires of Cologne Cathedral. They may think of Roland—the paladin of Charlemagne—of Hildegunde his betrothed of nearby Nonnenwerth. But as the Siebengebirge fade out with the evening light the eclipse of Czechoslovakia also will probably have begun. The "great surrender" may be an accomplished fact.

Mr. King Kept Calm

ONE OR TWO CANADIAN NEWS papers hostile to the present Dominion Government have been trying to make political capital out of the fact that Prime Minister Mackenzie King has not rushed into print with a statement of fighting policy in respect of the Czechoslovakian crisis. The head of the administration at Ottawa, of course, is not given to rash decisions. He has had too much experience in the conduct of public affairs to permit himself to be swayed by anything savoring of high-pressure tactics. And if he cannot praise his critics for their lack of perspective he can sympathize with them for their failure to understand why cheap and noisy political suasion leaves him quite cold. As we already have said in these columns, the Prime Minister of Canada and his colleagues in the cabinet have been in continuous touch with the British Government ever since the progress of events in Central Europe began to take on a sinister significance, and no occasion has presented itself on which it has been thought either necessary or advisable to give expression to the obvious.

But the Vancouver Daily Province never misses an opportunity to try to think what it thinks it ought to think and say it as ambiguously as it can. Less than a week ago, for example, it accused Mr. King of "the way of silence or evasion," but assured him it was still not too late for him "to speak in the better mind of Canada," and so on. This is not the first time, however, that the present Prime Minister of this country has had to face a "crisis" in Europe. London tried to stampee him in 1922 when the "gentleman with the fez" went on the rampage. Mr. King thought before he spoke—and the famous "Chanak Crisis" disappeared in the sweet reasonableness of a conference. That was just a little less than four years after the war to end all wars had been fought. Would the Vancouver Province, on any day in the last week, have preferred noise and rhetoric from Prime Minister King to the "watching and waiting" which has been his policy? Whatever it would have liked, however—it never knows quite what it wants—when the present "crisis" has blown over and the carved offering has been grabbed by Europe's major totalitarian state, the leader of the government of this country will not be on record as favoring surrender to the country for whose guarantee of good order 60,000 Canadians laid down their lives.

Down By the Aven

DOWN BY THE AVON TONIGHT RT. Hon. Anthony Eden, former Foreign Secretary in the Chamberlain ministry, told his Warwick and Leamington constituents of Stratford that "the British people know a stand must be made . . . they pray it be not made too late . . . the conviction is growing that continued retreat can only lead to ever-widening confusion."

By this time the man who left the cabinet of Prime Minister Chamberlain seven months ago, because he would not deal with the blackmailer of Rome, knows that the stand has not been made, that Great Britain and France have virtually compelled Czechoslovakia to pay off the more powerful blackmailer of Berlin. Well may Mr. Eden, the first British sacrifice to the Hitlerian philosophy, predict that "continued retreat can only lead to ever-widening confusion."

There is little more to be said at this juncture save that the finishing touches to the initial carving job on Czechoslovakia will be applied by the side of the swiftly-flowing waters of the Rhine at Bad Godesberg tomorrow. It may be, of course, that Prime Minister Chamberlain will return to London with the promise from the Reichsfuehrer that he will be good from now on—perhaps. But to think that the "either-or" ultimatum to Prague was the product of British and French statesmen!

The time may not be far distant, of course, when the people of both Great Britain and France will agree with the well-defined principle of the courts, in democratic countries, that on the first sign of blackmail the services of the police be called in. When the force of popular opinion recovers from this latest bow of democracy to totalitarianism, therefore, a League of Nations with teeth in it may emerge. This is humanity's only hope now.

Next?

IT IS NO SECRET THAT GERMAN-POLISH relations leave much to be desired. The fact that Nazi Germany made Danzig, nominally a Free City under the joint supervision of Poland and the League, to all intents and purposes part of the Reich, had something to do with it. There are other reasons, however; above all, the hostile press campaign toward Polish Upper Silesia.

Reports from Germany tell of the creation of a special military unit comprising Germans who, refusing to serve in the Polish army, escaped into the Reich. This unit is called the Pomeranian Legion. Warsaw knows what is going on and published figures recently which showed that more than 200 young Germans escaped into Germany in the course of a few weeks from West Poland alone. Another report to Warsaw says 30,000 German rifles were smuggled into Danzig from East Prussia, together with machine guns, heavy and light, for the equipment of a special military corps. The same source states the quantity of German ammunition smuggled into Danzig would be sufficient for a force of 25,000 men.

Another indication of what Germany is planning is a decision of the German National Socialist Party to induce all German Nazis in Polish territories to wear white socks. The Henleinists started their anti-Czechian campaign that way and in Austria the same method was used. Now Poland is in line.

A Useful Hormone

TWO YALE EXPERIMENTERS HAVE introduced an artificial hormone injection which, according to their declarations, will effect the following results: (a) Do away with fits of anger, (b) calm the nerves, (c) eliminate fidgeting, (d) relieve periods of sulking, and (e) make the meek bold. The list is partial. It is declared that the discovery's total effect is to "raise the level of living."

Obviously arrangements should be made eventually to provide every man, woman and child on this distraught planet with at least one injection, but in the meantime some very good work might be done by getting a little injection practice on: Adolf and Benito (see note "a" above); the pilots of the democracies (see "b"); the League of Nations (see "c"); business, labor and politics (see "d"); and one John Q. Citizen (see "e").

Montreal Star publishes a featured editorial on Chamberlain's "coup." But it was written just a week ago.

Comes news that an Australian factory is making a lipstick container that can be turned into a cartridge. Now, isn't that a fine thing to put in a woman's hands!

ON CRITICIZING CHAMBERLAIN AT A DISTANCE

From Cleveland Press
It might be a very sound idea to say a little bit less about England's moral duty in regard to the checking of the dictators. After all, there are more ignoble aims than the desire to preserve the peace. And when all that there is to say about Mr. Chamberlain's alleged inner sympathy with the Fascists has been said, the fact remains that the man has been making a desperate effort to keep his country out of war.

Maybe he has been making his effort in the wrong way. Maybe the risks of his policy are greater than the risks of a forthright, daring and clear-cut policy of defiance to all aggressors. Maybe in the long run England will have to fight anyway, and will only make the fight tougher by postponing the evil day.

But it is hardly becoming for persons at a distance to be too vocal about all of this. The last war isn't so far away but what the English can remember it pretty clearly. A whole generation of young men was destroyed. The monument which commemorates the Somme drive bears a plaque in honor of some 60,000 unknown dead—not total casualties, just men who vanished without a trace during the course of the battle. The war wrecked England's economy and left the Empire with problems that will be generations in the solving.

In view of all of this, the English are hardly to be blamed if they choose to move cautiously in the European powder mine. And since we ourselves are determined—and very properly so—to stay at peace no matter what happens in England, we have small reason to be impatient about English caution.

If we think that stopping Fascism is worth a war, we have the privilege of getting out on the firing line and doing our part. Since we don't have the slightest intention of doing that, it would be just as well for us to stop talking about the policy of a nation which is right under the gun.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

DEMOCRACY

THESE ARE TIMES when you perceive with sudden vividness that there is no democracy in the strict classical sense. There never was any democracy, of course, except in the tiny city states of Athens, and it proved a complete wash-out. When all public business had to be done by the public in assembly, there was such wrangling and double-crossing that no business could be done, and Plato and all other best minds knew the arrangement was absurd from the beginning.

Today the public in no country is deciding the issues of peace and war, which, as this is written, hang delicately in the balance. Even the British Parliament has no idea what the British Government is doing, what it is saying to Hitler, what it is committing the nation to. Only the cabinet knows, and in moments of crisis the cabinet, a few men, have complete power over the nation's destiny; probably half a dozen men at most, if the truth were known.

In times of crisis like this you must put your fortune, your life and your future in the hands of whatever men happen to be bosses at the moment, and all you can do is hope for the best. It was so before the Great War, when half a dozen men in London, Paris, Berlin and Brussels decided the fate of this country and its young men, and made a rather notable failure of it. You can only pray that they are doing a better job this time.

And while you may yammer as much as you please about sovereign people, their sovereignty can only be exercised in a general way over long periods. When the going is hard the tribesmen of the civilized nations, as much as the poor redskins, must surrender themselves to the chief. He can be burned at the stake later on if he makes a mistake, but by that time it is too late to do any good.

DAVIS MEMORIES

DURING A VISIT to London, following the publication in England of his popular novel "Princess Aline," Richard Harding Davis was "graciously informed" by an enquirer that Queen Victoria and her daughters had much enjoyed reading "Princess Aline," says Fairfax Downey (in "Richard Harding Davis: His Day").

"How did they like the conclusion, where the princess doesn't marry the commoner hero after all?" Davis asked with a smile. "Of course," the enquirer vouchsafed loftily, "they realized that no other conclusion would have been possible."

"Dick" Davis was always very proud of his foreign medals and orders—gained as war correspondent—and never missed an opportunity to wear them. Once in London he was taken by a friend to a supper party at the Garrick Club, at which Sir Henry Irving was among the guests. Davis entered the supper room wearing a wonderful fur coat which, when he threw it off, exposed to the amazed view of the company, a fine array of decorations fastened to his dress coat.

Dick was introduced all around, and while yet the company was under the dazzle of his displays, Irving, who knew him well and his weakness, and who was very fond of him, remarked, fingering the various medals:

"Ah! Swimming?"

"Mr. Downey tells the story but leaves Irving out of it, content to credit the remark to a 'wit.' But it is a well-known Garrick Club story."

Davis was a dear fellow, but he thought no end of himself, which adds piquancy to the story of his meeting with Oscar Wilde at a luncheon in London. "The clashing temperaments of the English esthete and the direct American struck sparks as Wilde indulged in his penchant for baiting Yankees," says Downey. Remarked Oscar: "So you are from Philadelphia, where Washington is buried?"

"Nonsense, he's buried in Mount Vernon," Davis answered abruptly.

Wilde, miffed, switched the talk to a new French Painter.

"Do let us hear what Mr. Davis thinks of him," he purred. "Americans always talk so amusingly of art."

Said Davis: "I never talk about things when I don't know the facts."

Wilde's rapier wit flashed back: "That must limit your conversation frightfully."

DINING CARS LOSE MONEY

From Railway Facts

Both of the large Canadian railways operate dining and buffet cars at a loss. In 1937, the customer of the Canadian Pacific who paid $1 received $1.42 cents worth of food and service. On the Canadian National, the customer who paid $1 received food and service costing the railway $1.56.

THE FALLING LEAVES

The summer leaves have changed their hue, And wayside flowers are fading too, Reminding us how brief the span Of summer life to mortal man.

The towering oak so strong and tall, And willow bush, however small; All shed their leaves on autumn air; They fall like snowflakes everywhere.

The falling leaf—"life's glory dead," And fading flower, whose bloom is shed, All bow to nature's stern decree, That life must fade in flower and tree.

But they will rise again some day, In new fresh life, not in decay; So after death shall we not share That new spring life beyond this sphere?

"THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME"

To the Editor:—The interesting cartoons, "They'll do it all the time" appearing in the Times are amusing and instructive. There must be a large supply of such incidents to draw from. They happen right along in the experience of most of us. Some may be passed off as simply amusing, while others are embarrassing and positively annoying, to say the least. Most often, no doubt, they occur without design, and always without reasonable regard to their effect upon others.

Here are two such experiences that could be eliminated from the category of annoyances without hardship to any one. Perhaps this notice may reach those concerned, and make it unnecessary for the cartoonist to try his art upon them.

The bulletins in the Times windows on Broad Street are attracting crowds of people these days, and are intensely scanned, and the writer also avails himself of the courtesy of your paper in supplying the public with important news as it comes in. On occasions, however, our pleasure is marred by some one who persistently reads the bulletins aloud. Perhaps this is done for the benefit of some one, the practice is most annoying and distressing to most of us—it is simply impossible to assimilate the news while this is going on. "They'll do it every time."

Here is another practice, equally thoughtless, but still annoying. It is practiced by a class of persons who doubtless desire to be polite, and who may feel resentment when told that their politeness is not approved by authorities on etiquette. I refer to removing the hat in public elevators when ladies are present. These same gentlemen do not remove their hats on entering a public conveyance, such as a bus or street car, or when they enter our stores. It would be very hard to say what difference there is between an elevator in a store and the store itself. We all know that it is expected of gentlemen to tip their hats to ladies of their acquaintance, and to remove their hats where occasion requires. Natural politeness is a good guide in such matters, and no gentleman begrudges this courtesy when it is called for. But when it is practiced where it is not called for, it becomes an annoyance. What is more annoying than when one of these gentlemen steps into an elevator, and pulls his hat off while a few of us, who know what is expected of us, are standing there uncovered, while the hatless one glowers at us, and apparently regards us as a lot of bores? Some times the others will remove their hats to accommodate the late arrival. The situation is admittedly embarrassing. All that is wanted in such circumstances is to know what is the correct thing to do—and do it. They may learn in time. But meantime "They'll do it every time."

A. P. LAINE.

TO THE EDITOR:—One observes with concern that a certain group of Pandora Avenue shopkeepers, whose businesses are located in the vicinity of Sunshine Inn, presented a petition to the City Council asking that the Sunshine Inn be removed to another neighborhood, for reasons set forth in the Times of September 7.

The writer is in a position to state positively that the class of men who come to the inn are not responsible for the begging, or panhandling, complained of by these worthy merchants. There is in this city a coterie of incorrigible vagrants, who are all known to the police, and who are barred from the privileges of Sunshine Inn, who form Victoria's No. 1 public nuisance. No part of the city's downtown section is immune from their operations, which have a sort of system by means of which they "work" definitely, always with a weather eye lifting for the patrolman on the beat. Having bumbled sufficient money, one of their number will find a way of obtaining a supply of third rail jig-jig, and later a booze-fest will be held in a vacant lot behind some advertisement hoarding or thick clump of weeds. Yates Street, from Douglas to Government, on a Sunday afternoon has of late been a favorite field of operation for these gentry, and Johnson Street is positively infested with them—generally in varying stages of befuddled alcoholism. Pandora Avenue, near Douglas, is no worse than any other downtown city block, and to attempt to lay any blame upon Sunshine Inn as an institution, or upon those men who receive their free meal there, for a condition which is general all over the city, seems absurd. It is obviously a police duty to keep the streets clear of nuisance, and the panhandling nuisance is one which ought to be rigorously stamped out.

GOAT MAN ON PASTEURIZATION

To the Editor:—The recent remarks by Dr. Howard A. Spohn and Dr. C. E. Dolman in advocating compulsory pasteurization are interesting and would appear on the face of it to be very impressive. Fortunately, however, they are not supported by irrefutable facts, nor by all members of the medical profession. Unfortunately those of the medical profession, who do not agree with the views of these doctors, are not so often heard, as they can never expect to get the support or encouragement from the great milk distributors, to whom compulsory pasteurization would be a welcome Godsend.

As an instance of a definite disagreement with Dr. Spohn and Dr. Dolman, I quote from a letter written to the British Medical Journal, by Dr. A. H. MacDonald, chief medical officer of Dr. Barnardo's Homes:

"It is interesting to note that the child on raw milk is very fit, that chilblains are practically eliminated, and that Dr. E. Spradon has shown that teeth are less likely to decay, owing to better dentine formation. Our experience through a succession of years shows that tubercle is not the result of drinking raw milk."

On being asked if special or certified milk was furnished to these children, Dr. MacDonald wrote to Dr. Goodfellow as follows:

"To make the point of the milk quite clear, most of our homes are supplied with just the ordinary quality."

As to the perfect safety of pasteurized milk, this is also a matter for dispute. All pasteurized milk cannot be considered to be safe. In fact it may be a positive danger. In support of this statement, I again quote medical opinion, from the British Goat Society Year Book, from an article written by R. A. Cooke, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.:

"Recently in one of the large newspapers there have appeared letters advocating 'pasteurized milk' on paper and in the laboratory, pasteurization is ideal. It kills off any contaminating microbes and yet leaves the vitamins intact. In practice, however, it does not work satisfactorily. In the process the milk must be heated to a definite temperature. It is quite easy to do this with small quantities of milk, and it is very difficult with a big quantity. In practice the temperature is often kept a little too low. The result is that organisms are given a temperature they love and a food, which is ideal for their growth. Milk so 'pasteurized' is a thousand times more dangerous than untreated milk. 'On two occasions I have had to send samples of pasteurized milk to the bacteriologist for examination. In both cases the reports stated that not only was the milk unfit to drink, but positively dangerous. It is much better to produce clean milk at the start. This is easily done by strict attention to personal cleanliness.'"

If the fear of consumption is the main supporting argument, which as I have shown is not justified, any one can eliminate that fear by using the milk of the goat, which is strongly advocated by eminent medical men throughout the world.

CONTRAST

To the Editor:—"Women go to gaol to have babies. Mothers-to-be go to Holloway Gaol especially to have their babies."

Some say they have been driven to commit minor offenses as the simplest way of getting a mattress on which to become mothers.

This is revealed in the "Lancet" in an article praising the proposed closure of Holloway Gaol as a women's prison. ("The 'Lancet' is the leading medical journal in Merrie England.")

Contrast this with New Zealand Labor Government Social Security Bill, now passed by Legislative Council, providing free medical services for all, etc.

CANADIANS GOD-LOVING

To the Editor:—I thank you correspondent for his check up on my message on the Kingdom of God on Earth—like the parable of the mustard seed. It is a stride towards the Kingdom. I must confess I fall down on the first query, viz., "Did I stop to think how many (or few) of these peoples ever profess to believe in the God of the Bible?"

I take it for granted we are a God-loving people who do keep His commandments. The very absence of crime proves it, and that is the broad outlook I take.

Israel's work is to raise the very nations who are preparing for the wholesale destruction of Israel (Christianity). I know nothing of British-Israelism. I speak of the redemption of Israel at the close of the Gentile times, which I believe is now here. "Let us watch and keep sober."

ROAD PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. T. A. Crerar, Acting Prime Minister, announced after a cabinet meeting yesterday that Premier Pattullo of British Columbia would be in Ottawa next Monday and probably would go before the government as a whole for a discussion of several provincial problems. He expected one subject to be discussed would be the proposed United States Highway to Alaska through British Columbia. Premier Pattullo left Victoria last night en route to Ottawa with four members of the provincial cabinet.

New Nova Scotia Grading of Fruit

HALIFAX (CP)—Nova Scotia has invoked the government-supervised grading and inspecting system of certain fruits and vegetables, provided for under a marketing act passed at the last session of the Legislature.

In announcing the plan had been operating for a week, Agriculture Minister J. A. McDonald, yesterday said fruits and vegetables, fully graded, had been coming in to the province from other sources but that Nova Scotia-grown products were being marketed largely without any grading restrictions which left them without the advantage given the imported products.

Indian Princes Pledge Support

SIMLA, India (CP—Havas)—Nine Indian princes have placed all their resources at the service of Great Britain in the event of a European war.

Two of the princes, the Maharajahs of Jodhpur and of Gwalior, respectively rule 2,125,000 and 3,500,000 subjects. Emulating a similar move last week by the Maharajah of Bikaner, the princes have communicated to the Marquess of Linlithgow, Viceroy of India, their readiness to fight for Britain.

Among them are the Maharajah of Dungarpur, the Maharajah of Kotah, the Maharawat of Paragbarh and the Nawab of Pilaupur.

Delay Suggested For Conference Plan

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—The interprovincial conference suggested by Premier Aberhart of Alberta should be deferred until data gathered by the Rowell Commission on Dominion-provincial relations is available, in the opinion of Premier Thane Campbell of Prince Edward Island. Premier Campbell yesterday said he had received a copy of the letter Premier Aberhart addressed to provincial government heads.

"I think any conference of that kind should await the findings of the Rowell Commission because the commission certainly gathered a lot of valuable information," he commented.

"I don't see any reason why the Dominion should be excluded," he added, in reference to Premier Aberhart's suggestion the provinces discuss interprovincial relations without any Dominion Government representatives present.

Bridal Couple to Make Home in Victoria

Tullidge-Arkell
Nuptials Today
In Vancouver

VANCOUVER—Departing from the traditional, Elizabeth Constance Arkell chose a blue and flame theme in flowers and frocks for the fashionable wedding this afternoon, at which she became the bride of Mr. Geoffrey Huish Tullidge of Victoria. Very Rev. Dean Ramsay Armitage and Major the Rev. C. C. Owen officiated at the 3.30 ceremony in Christ Church Cathedral, at which the principals were the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall Arkell, now of Vancouver and formerly of Winnipeg, and the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles James Tullidge, also of this city.

The bride, who attended Brank some Hall in Toronto and graduated as gold medalist from the University of Manitoba, where she was at one time president of Gamma Phi Sorority, was attended by her two sisters, Miss Joan Arkell, as maid of honor, and Miss Marion Arkell, Mrs. George Harrison, Jr., the former Doris Brown of Edmonton, and Mrs. Harry Boyce.

Mr. Jack Roaf was best man for Mr. Tullidge and ushers were Mr. Robert Rankin of Toronto, who flew west to his former home city for the wedding; Mr. Robert Cromie, II, Mr. William Roaf, Mr. George Harrison, Jr., and Mr. Harry Boyce.

Traditional whit was replaced by heavenly blue Duchane satin for the bride gown with its long sheathed sleeves, heart-shaped neckline and sweeping skirt, which fanned out into a lengthy train from an inset panel that was lined in blue chiffon showing through crescent cutwork.

Cloudy blue tulle cascaded from a heart-shaped halo, and in the bridal bouquet were gardenias and valley lilies.

In flaming contrast were the cherry red chiffon frocks of the attendants, whose vividly matching pill-box hats of blue were adorned with blue ostrich tips curled over the upturned side. Blue lace flowers combined with flame gladioli were carried by the attendants.

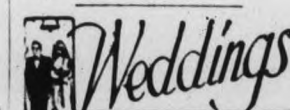

A reception at the parental home of the bride on Angus Avenue followed the cathedral service. Mrs. Arkell wore gold metallic lace over self-shaded whisper taffeta, the full-skirted frock topped by a brief short-sleeved jacket. Her smart felt tricorne of New York tan shade was mounted with an ostrich flue tip in varying tones of grey, blue and yellow and over Saxe blue was worn by Mrs. Tullidge, whose grey Sanje model hat was matched up by suede gloves and shoes.

Mrs. H. D. Gooderham of Victoria, and formerly of Winnipeg, presided at the bride's table with Mrs. John Burns, who had presented today's bride and groom with the white satin kneeling cushions used at her wedding. General J. A. Clark proposed the health of the bride.

For motoring south to Oregon, the bride wore for travel a brown custom-tailored suit with ciel blue crepe French blouse and chic postillion felt hat. Her flowers were orchids and accessories brown suede.

Mr. Tullidge and his bride will go directly to Victoria in two weeks' time to make their home on Moss Street in the Capital City.

ACRES-ANDERSON

Beneath a floral arch in front of large windows at the home of the bride's parents, a pretty wedding was solemnized at four o'clock on Thursday afternoon, September 15, when Velma Kathleen, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Anderson, Steilacoom, Wash., became the bride of Mr. Albert E. Acres, Victoria, B.C. Gladioli and other autumn flowers adorned the living rooms and provided the setting for the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Mr. Walker of Drinkwater. The wedding marches were played by Mr. Robert Pounder of Moose Jaw, who also contributed pianoforte numbers during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gownned in floor-length aquatint taffeta, designed with very full skirt and draped bodice, fastened at the back with tiny buttons of self. The matching bolero jacket featured full puffed sleeves. Her chapel veil of net fell from a coronet of matching flowers and she wore net mittens of the same shade. Her flowers were sweet heart roses.

Miss Isabelle McTavish, Moose Jaw, who attended as bridesmaid, chose a gown of pink net with jacket to match. The full double net skirt was banded at the hemline by rows of braid and this trimming was repeated at the fitted waistline. A matching shoulder-length veil was held by flowers in the hair and she carried a bouquet of pink gladioli and blue delphinium.

Mr. Horace McTavish, Moose Jaw, acted as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Anderson was attired in a gown of delphinium blue crepe and wore a corsage of talisman roses. About 45 guests were present at the reception which followed the service. The tea table was effectively centred with a bouquet of pink roses mingled with pencil tapers of pastel tones. The three-tiered wedding cake was given a place of prominence on the buffet, which was lighted by pink tapers in silver candelabras. Mrs. L. D. McTavish and Mr. B. Brown presided, and assisting in seeing to the pleasures of the guests were Mrs. George Drurie, Mrs. James Purdy and Miss Mowat.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Acres left for a holiday in Banff before making their home in Victoria. The bride wore for traveling a knitted grey angora. Her modish felt hat was in violet shade with accessories to match, and she carried a smart top coat of grey. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Percy Fairbairn of Victoria.

BRACKETT-JACKLIN

"Candles were lit in Holy Trinity Lutheran Church Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock for the wedding of Miss Marjorie Jacklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jacklin, and Mr. Percy Brackett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Swan Brackett. The marriage vows were read by the Rev. E. H. Beilstein before a large number of relatives and friends.

"Vine maple foliage twined on trellises near the altar, baskets of chrysanthemums and other autumn flowers and tiny clusters of the flowers between the candles placed in the windows were used for the bridal setting.

"The wedding party entered to the Lohengrin music played by Mrs. Clive Durkee. Before the ceremony Mrs. Robert Jones sang 'I Love You Truly'."

"Given by her father in marriage, the bride was lovely in her redingote gown of white lace over satin, made with tiny pleated frill at the throat and long sleeves. Her floor-length veil of illusion was caught into a cap with orange blossoms, and was the same veil worn by her sister, Mrs. W. F. Jenkins, at her wedding 22 years ago. The bride's bouquet was roses and lilies of the valley."

"Miss Jean Bland in orchid chiffon and Miss Gwen Rowe in maize chiffon, made with stirred details, were bridesmaids. Each wore a necklace which was the gift of the bride. Their flowers were colonial bouquets of pastel shades, and they wore sprays of orange blossoms in their hair."

"Jerry Johnston was best man. Ushers were Stanley Yoder and Maurice Gallagher."

"A wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Jacklin, in periwinkle blue lace, and Mrs. Swan Brackett, in plum crepe, both with small black hats, received about 70 guests."

"Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. W. F. Jenkins of Victoria, sister of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jacklin and children, Georgia and Alfred; Mrs. Anna Mitchell and Mrs. Edwin Johnson, all of Victoria; Mrs. Ivor Rowe and daughter, Miss Gwen Rowe, of Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jones and daughter, Wilma, of Forks."

"Mr. and Mrs. Brackett left on a wedding trip to California, the bride wearing a hand-knit yellow suit with rust accessories. They will be at home to friends after October 1 in their new home at 606 East Twelfth Street."

Dean Elliott on Childhood Days

Reminiscences of his early childhood were recalled by Dean Spencer Elliott in an entertaining address before an audience of several hundred members of the Women's Parish Guild and friends yesterday afternoon in the Memorial Hall.

The dean's father was trained in the Baptist ministry, under Charles Haddon Spurgeon, famous founder of Spurgeon's Tabernacle, London, and the dean mentioned that he had a collection of letters written by Spurgeon to his father, and which were among his treasured possessions. Subsequently his father was transferred to a ministry in Pollockshields, Glasgow, where the speaker, who was then between four and six years, attended a Presbyterian Sunday school.

His description of the "soirees" held in connection with the churches, and other stories of pawky Scottish humor created much amusement.

Mrs. George Miles, who presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. G. H. Bissell, tendered the thanks of the gathering to Dean Elliott, who promised to continue his boyhood reminiscences at a future meeting of the guild.

Tea was later served in the guild room, at tables arranged with bowls of beautiful cactus dahlias. The hall platform was also decorated with huge baskets of Michaelmas daisies, goldenrod and dahlias, in colorful effect.

Plans for the annual bazaar were completed at a meeting of Princess Patricia Lodge, Daughters of St. George, presided over by Worthy Sister L. Duncan, Mrs. M. Wright is the convener for the bazaar which will be held November 4, in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Government Street.

No Sororities In English Varsity

British Co-ed After Career, Not Campus Romance

LONDON (CP)—Joe College and Betty Co-ed in the "new world" on their way back to their university this fall, probably would be thrilled to tears if their old gas buggy should sprout wings and set them down in an English university instead.

They would be weeping for another reason if they knew what awaited them—they would discover that, Hollywood portrayals to the contrary, you don't go to an English university if you want a campus romance.

Most English students, say those in the know, go to university for an education, not to play around. Studying is an all-day job, although in some institutions you can get by on three hours' work a week.

As for the typical English co-ed, she is far different from her American cousin. Rarely do you find a gorgeous eyelet strolling on the campus. English co-eds are career girls, out to get an education—not a man. Anyway, Englishmen still look askance on co-education, and this attitude is reflected in the small number of women students in English universities—22.9 per cent.

The universities don't have the set-up for a boy-meets-girl social life. Fraternities and sororities do not exist.

It costs a minimum of $1,000 a year at minor universities, at least $2,000 a year at Oxford and Cambridge. A poor boy can't work his way through, but he has a chance at scholarships, and those are plentiful.

She Put Curves in Wax Models

NEW YORK (CP)—Jean Spadea was going along in a sweet-tempered way as one of Fifth Avenue's highest-priced fashion artists. A yearly salary running into five figures.

But two years ago she became so annoyed by the glass-eyed store window mannequins with straight up-and-down middles that she sat down and carved her own idea of a mannequin. Thereby she nominated herself for the very small crowd that's pioneering in new ideas of store display. Her mannequin had the curves of a live, alluring lady. One of Fifth Avenue's fanciest stores snapped up Eve (that's what Mrs. Spadea had named it). Now, Spadea figures are being sold across the continent. And Eve has been booked to appear at the New York World's Fair of 1939.

Old-fashioned mannequins, says Mrs. Spadea, weren't clothes racks, but neither were they women. Mrs. Spadea's models are brooding beauties. They are thin, but they bulge where they should. They're long-legged. Some stand on one foot, and that curves the other leg nicely. They have deep eye sockets and high cheekbones. One with real hair costs $165, and one with silk cord locks is $135. The stores that buy Spadea models use about 20 a year.

They must be something, because they seem to be cutting in on the flesh and blood beauties. There's a legend that New York young bloods are sneaking off each week to ogle their favorite Spadea model in the window of the New York store that has them exclusively. They want to see how their plaster lady looks in each week's change of dress.

Woman Senator Is League Officer

OTTAWA (CP)—The League of Nations Society in Canada announced yesterday it had received a cable that its president, Senator Cairine Wilson of Ottawa, had been elected a vice-president of the International Federation of League of Nations Societies, now meeting at Geneva.

The regular meeting of W.B.A. Review No. 1 was held in the K. of C. Hall Monday evening, the president, Mrs. Bowden, in the chair. Plans were made for the annual banquet on October 17. Mrs. Barracough will convene the bazaar to be held in November, the date to be decided later. The local review will visit the Chemainus Review on October 6, any member not present at the meeting, but desiring to make the trip is asked to get in touch with either the president or the secretary.

Social and Personal Flying Attracts Women But Jobs Are Scarce

Major Kenneth Saunders, well-known air pilot of Edmonton, formerly of Victoria, is spending a holiday in Victoria, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Steele, Howe Street.

Mrs. Joseph Valentine of Seattle is in Vancouver to attend the Tullidge-Arrell wedding today and is the house guest of Mrs. Jack Lamprey. Later in the week she will arrive here to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ruggles, the Uplands.

Of interest both in the east and in the west is the announcement of the engagement of Gwendoline, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Northcott, 3791 Savannah Avenue, to Mr. William Duncan Lawrie, only son of Mrs. J. Lawrie and the late Mr. Lawrie of Woodbridge, Ontario. The wedding will take place in Victoria on October 22.

Mrs. F. Doherty won the contract prize. Mrs. A. Bantley, auctioneer, and Mrs. A. Weyder, and Mrs. A. Grant the special prizes at the enjoyable bridge tea arranged yesterday afternoon in the private dining room of David Spencer Ltd., under the auspices of the Victoria Sub-division, Catholic Women's League. Mrs. Blair Reid, president, and general convenor, assisted by Mrs. J. J. O'Brien, took charge of the arrangements and welcomed the guests during the afternoon.

In the Esquimalt Salvation Army Hall on Monday evening, a surprise party was held to honor Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rankin who were celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary. The hall was beautifully decorated in pink and white, the wedding cake having the place of honor. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Rankin were presented with a lovely bouquet of flowers by their granddaughter, Miss Hazel Rankin, and Mr. and Mrs. H. McLean gave an interesting talk on "The Work of Our Church in Canada," showing there are 87,899 families connected with the Presbyterian Church and an increase of 396 families over last year. Rev. McLean stressed the fact that it is the common faith that makes a church and not the organization. The work of a church is just the work of the individual Christian. The obligation laid upon any individual is the desire and urge to bring that knowledge to others. After the meeting tea was served and a social half hour enjoyed by all.

Now, Not one in the flying game has. When this civil aviation movement really gets started there'll be heaps of chances."

BROUGHT LITTLE CASH

Beryl Markham—who flew the Atlantic in 1936—is also in London looking for flying work. Braving the ocean has brought her little hard cash and she now has the idea of taking self-conducted flying parties to Africa to hunt and photograph wild game. She considers movie stars the most likely clients, as they get the desire to see the real thing after acting in jungle pictures.

To keep herself busy in the meantime Beryl is writing her life's story. As a little girl out in South Africa she spent days sitting dangling long legs over paddock rails watching her father train racehorses. Famous figures in racing and aviation came and went. Page by page this biography is being mailed to Hollywood to be edited by Bay Morris, daughter of novelist Gouverneur Morris and secretary to Fred Astaire, the dancer. Bay is one of Beryl's friends who hope to see her in the movies in an aviation picture.

W.C.T.U. Convene On Mainland

Sturberg Sees Model Russian Camp and Clothing Factory
By PETER STURBERG
IN RUSSIA.

IN THE SUNNY living room of the Artek Pioneer Camp near Odessa, 11-year-old Tanya Nemirova was bending over a table writing her diary. Proudly she leaned back in her chair so we could see the manuscript neatness of her work, with the little crayon drawings and decorations. A Californian among us who knew Russian read what she had written of her adventures on the previous day. Practically all of it was devoted to a report of a lecture on the Stalin constitution.

This Artek Camp on the sunny shores of the Black Sea would make our Y.M.C.A. camps look rather forlorn. Of course it is a show camp, but it is only one of many such camps.

The construction is more on the lines of a sanatorium, though only healthy children come to the place. On the other hand, they are treated as though they were in a sanatorium. The long stucco bungalow buildings contain indoor and outdoor dormitories. Beside the main living room there is a library, a game room and a complete open-air work shop looking on to a garden, in which there is an old Red Army plane to serve as a model for model airplane builders. In a separate building is a theatre.

The whole camp is in a beautiful park which runs right down to the beach, where there are big red umbrellas and chutes and everything else. In the park are great concrete models of butterflies and bees and other insects.

And what beautiful children there were at this Artek Camp. Of course, they were the pick of the Pioneers (the Communist Boy Scout-Girl Guides) of the Ukraine—350 of them coming here every month for having received high marks in their various groups.

This camp had been built during the present Five Year Plan, the director told us, and by the end of the plan, within three years, would be enlarged to handle 1,000 children a month. The children were from 10 to 16 years-old, he said. There were both boys and girls in the camp.

In the open-air dormitory we watched two serious young men playing chess, the national game of Russia. A little further on, we came upon another boy writing a poem for the wall newspaper. The Californian who understood Russian said it was very good.

In the theatre the Pioneers put on an impromptu concert for us, dancing the dances and singing the songs of old Russia.

THE FACTORY is more than an economic unit in Soviet Russia. In the Gorki Clothing Factory in Kiev there is a complete hospital, with a maternal clinic and a dental surgery, a restaurant with a special diet room, a laundry, a barber shop and a beauty parlor.

The literary efforts of the workers find an outlet in a newspaper which the plant publishes twice a week. There is a library of 15,000 books, including works in Ukrainian and Jewish. In the theatre films are shown at special hours so the workers on the different shifts can see them. The program is changed twice a week.

Showers are provided and seem to be used. The factory has its own technical school and higher educational school, beside a kindergarten for the small children of its workers. Then there are special rooms for the members of the Communist Party and the Young Communist Party. And, of course, there is a creche in a separate building.

Robert A. Myra Succumbs After Slipping Through Skylight

Robert A. Myra, 1145 Woodstock Avenue, died in St. Joseph's Hospital last evening from injuries he suffered when he fell through the skylight of the job pressroom of the Daily Colonist below yesterday afternoon. Mr. Myra fell on his head as he slipped through the skylight which he was repairing.

His tragic death brought expressions of condolence from all branches of the printing trade in Victoria. As linotype machinist on the morning paper he was the eldest in service on the Colonist mechanical staff. He joined the newspaper in January, 1906, after coming west from Winnipeg. He was 58 years old and spent much of his youth in Nova Scotia, where relatives still reside.

"Bob" Myra was a man liked by everyone who knew him. Of a quiet and unassuming disposition he was a man ever ready to help anyone with their problems and many young men received the benefit of his wide knowledge when seeking solution to problems of their trade.

He is survived by his wife in Victoria who was at his bedside when he passed away. He had been rushed to hospital in the ambulance and regained consciousness on his way.

He was a member of Victoria Typographical Union, No. 201; a member of Gileh Temple of the Shrine; Columbia Chapter, No. 1, Royal Arch Masons; Western Gate Preceptory, No. 30, and one of the Eastern lodges of A.F. & A.M. He was also a member of the Royal Arcanum.

Theatre Group Holds Meeting

The Victoria Little Theatre Association last night became the Victoria Little Theatre and Dramatic School at the opening meeting of the season at the clubrooms on Rockland Avenue.

Plans were made for the winter. New seats will be installed in the hall, in tiers, and the stage will be raised.

The membership has grown steadily, the meeting was told, and 30 applications had been received in recent days from persons anxious to join. Anyone interested in Little Theatre work is asked to communicate with Miss Mae Murray, secretary, 132 South Turner Street, or H. J. S. Reynolds at the Bank of Montreal.

An excellent musical program, convened by Fraser Lister, was given. Contributing were Phyllis Deaville, Dorothy Parsons, Adele Ramsay, Peggy Moore, Thelma Johns, George Farmer, Dudley Wickett, Phillip Heal and Yorkie, the ventriloquist, and his dummy, Jerky. Mrs. M. McCurdy, Mrs. Jamie Cameron and Mrs. Gibson were accompanists.

Refreshments were served by a committee in charge of Miss Dorothy Cox. Harry J. Davis, the president, presided and thanked the artists and Mrs. Lister for their entertainment.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just stays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Headaches, dizziness, go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Lone Canuck Is Defeated

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

ACTION TAKEN by the racing judges at Willows track the other day in ordering four suspensions for the "unsatisfactory" running of last Saturday's hurdle race will be warmly applauded by the racing public in Victoria.

Regardless of the virtue of this particular case, which we are not in a position to comment on, since the judges gave no other reason, the fact that the racing moguls are determined to keep the sport clean is welcome.

To be frank about it, thoroughbred racing in Victoria for the last few years has not always been in the best odor. There are several reasons for this besides the so-called "shoo-shoo" attempts which, as a matter of fact, rarely are successful. One is that Victoria gets the tail end of the season, when many of the larger stables are heading southward. Another is that many owners of the better class horses do not like to risk their horses on the smaller tracks, where accidents are more likely to happen than on the mile ovals.

But just because a cheaper class of horses is racing here is no reason why there should be any relaxation in racing rules, and Judge W. J. McKeon and his associates are to be congratulated on their efforts to keep things straight.

This year the Willows attracted a pretty fair bunch of stock, including several of the handicappers from Vancouver tracks, and it is all to the good that the horsemen and trainers should know that no monkey business will be tolerated. Wherever there is horse racing, and betting connected with it, attempts will be made by those who are not too scrupulous to "put something over." It is the lure of easy money. Such practices can be stamped out by efficient presiding judges who are interested in the sport on its proper high level.

Victoria for years has been a good racing town. It has many lovers of thoroughbreds who are interested in racing for racing's sake. They are right behind the judges in any action they see fit to improve the sport.

This also applies to rough riding tactics of the jockeys. A couple of them have been set down this meeting for breaking the racing rules. While it is sometimes difficult, on the small track, for a jockey to avoid bumping and crossing over when coming to a turn, or going wide when his mount hits the bend too fast, the stewards are experienced men. They can tell when these things are accidental or deliberate. While the fan whose desire is riding on a horse that gets shut off may feel he is badly done by, he should accept this with good grace as part of the racing luck and trust the stewards to take action when they deem it necessary.

Just one more word, addressed to Mr. Randall: "Sam, your mutual board worked fine the first week, but watch out for those 16 to 1 shots that pay $108. We could see those at a glance with the old totalizer."

Art Young Again Soccer Club Chief

Arthur Young was returning to serve his second term in the president's chair of the Esquimalt Football Club at the annual meeting held last night in the Bullen Park clubrooms.

W. Lake was chosen vice-president, and J. F. Mesher was re-elected secretary. Dave Scott will manage the club for another season and W. Barrett was selected as trainer. The selection committee will be Scott, Barrett and Jock McCall.

Mrs. Eric Phillips Out of U.S. Championship Golf; Patty Berg Brilliant

CHICAGO—Chubby Patty Berg of Minneapolis blazed a spectacular trail to new heights in the women's United States golf championship yesterday with an amazing 10 and 8 "shutout" victory as she paced a smart field into today's second and third rounds of match play.

The day saw a majority of favorites stick in the title running, and one veteran campaigner, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, bow out of the championship picture.

Miss Berg routed Mrs. Myron Davy of Washington by winning 10 straight holes and "burned up" the Westmoreland course. She toured the first nine in 38, one under par, and won with a par four on the 10th green.

A young Georgia star, Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, sent Mrs. Vare to the sidelines. All even through 16 holes, Miss Kirby took the 17th as her opponent—six times winner of the crown—bunkered her tee shot. A half on the 18th ended the veteran's hopes.

CANADIAN BEATEN

A majority of favorites came through as expected. Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N.C., the defending champion, downed Mrs. Eric Phillips of Toronto, the only Canadian to survive the qualifying round, 4 and 3. Dorothy Traung of San Francisco, co-medalist with Mrs. Page, eliminated Mrs. Lillian Zech of Chicago. Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., sent Dorothy Ellis of Indianapolis out, and Maureen Orcutt, Hawthorn, N.J., trounced Bernice Wall of Chicago and Oshkosh, Wis. Those victories were by 4 and 3 margins.

Four members of the British contingent of six players advanced to the second round. They were Mrs. J. B. Walker, Jessie Anderson, Clarrie Tiernan and Mrs. Diana Fishwick Critchley.

Miss Anderson eliminated a British Curtis Cup teammate, Nan Steel Baird, 5 and 4, while Phyllis Wade, also a member of the British Curtis squad, bowed to Helen Waterhouse of Warwick, R.I. 1 up.

Results of the other British players were:

Mrs. J. B. Walker of Dublin, Eire, defeated Mrs. Tim Lawry, Chicago, 7 and 5.

Clarrie Tiernan, Baltray, Eire, defeated Laddie Irwin, Glen Ridge, N.J. 1 up.

Mrs. Diana Fishwick Critchley, Surrey, England, defeated Jane Cothran, Greenville, S.C. 3 and 2.

The shield is open to competition to all cadet corps which have won a first class or special certificate in the Dominion Rifle Association. The Brentwood team is only in its second season of competitive shooting. It is coached by the veteran Busley shot, Major Fred Richardson.

The Victoria team scored a total of 900 points out of a possible 1000, and it is composed of 10 boys whose ages range from 14 to 18.

D. Holmes led the team by putting on a perfect score of 100. Other members of the team and their scores follow: G. Milligan 98, R. E. Pooley 97, A. Johnston 96, R. Mackenzie 96, G. Hotham 96, G. Wilby 95, K. Logan 95, P. Holmes 94 and R. Field 93.

The Rainbow Sea Cadets, only other entrants from the island, placed fourth with 915 points to their credit.

Grid Star Killed

Ormond Beach, Sarnia Imperials' Half-back, Dies in Explosion at Oil Company's Plant

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—Ormond Beach, 27, star half-back of Sarnia Imperials, former Canadian football champion, was killed early today when a spherical tank at the No. 2 plant of Imperial Oil Limited exploded. Beach was employed by the company.

It was understood Beach was on top of the tank, testing one of the gauges, when the explosion occurred shortly after midnight. No one else was injured. Company officials declined to give further details of the accident.

Beach, a 260-pound giant, came to Sarnia in 1933 after graduating from Kansas University where he started on the gridiron. Beach earned recognition in Canada as a great all-around half-back and was named on virtually every all-eastern team picked in the last four years. Last season he was selected the outstanding player in the Ontario Rugby Football Union after Imperials had won the O.R.F.U. title for the seventh consecutive time.

Without a peer as a defensive back, Beach also was an offensive star for Sarnia. He was an accurate forward passer and a dynamic plunger.

So long as the Imperials had Beach and Hugh (Bummer) Stirling on the backfield they were one of the most feared football forces in the country. They captured the Canadian championship in 1934, defeating Regina Roughriders in the final, and again in 1936.

Beach was in training for the 1938 season. News of the giant backfielder's death left the city gripped and shocked. Beach had become extremely popular in Sarnia, aiding in the coaching of younger footballers, basketball and baseball players.

Whether Beach's death would have any immediate effect on the Imperials' plans was not announced.

Beach's death was a great loss to the city and to the sport of football. He was a true leader and a great player.

Patrick Gets Many Students

About 40 Hockey Prospects to Attend Annual Winnipeg School

NEW YORK—When Lester Patrick calls his fifth annual amateur hockey school to order in Winnipeg's amphitheatre rink October 3, about 40 ambitious students, hopeful of matriculation into the New York Ranger farm system, are expected to answer the bell.

When the semester ends in a week, Patrick will have decided upon the 15 graduates who will form the New York Rangers team for the eastern United States Amateur League season.

Seven veterans of last winter's Rover troupe will attend the classes. They are Frank Boucher of Ottawa, nephew and namesake of Rangers' utility centre who now assists Patrick in handling the National League's "Broadway Blueshirts"; Murdo McKay of Fort William; Alf Pike, Albert Collings and Bill Allum of Winnipeg; Walt Rimstad of Edmonton, and Lloyd Ailsby of Vesper, Alta.

Lester named 20 hopefuls who are certain to be on hand when the school opens. Fifteen live west of the Ontario-Manitoba border, the others east of it. Eleven are senior students and the others juniors.

The enrollees are: Bill Hannon, Halifax; Victor Cameron, Carleton Place, Ont.; Howard Hollinger, Kitchener; Jack Godfrey, Cooper Cliff, Ont.; T. G. Lyons, Rainy River, Ont.; Mitch Peche, Brandon; Ernie Strong, Winnipeg; Harold Cathcart, St. Boniface; Sid Brown and Phil And, Kelowna; Flin Flon, Man.; Bill Tilson and Howie Dinsley, Regina; Tom Dewar, Vic Myles and Norm Larson, Moose Jaw; Vince Germann, Yorkton, Sask.; Bob Carse and Julian Sawchuk, Edmonton; Reg Bentley, Drumheller, Alta., and Stan Smith, Trail, B.C.

SEABISCUIT RUNS THIRD

Muddy Track and Heavy Weight Too Much For Handicap Champion

NEW YORK—Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit, the 1937 handicapped racing champion, found the combination of a muddy track and lightly-weighted opposition a bit too much for him yesterday and wound up third as William Woodward's Isolator won the 36th Manhattan handicap at Belmont Park.

The Biscuit was made a 6 to 5 favorite although he's known as a mud-hater and seldom is allowed to start if the track is heavy. He did nothing at all to justify the odds, winding up three lengths behind Isolator, which beat Walter M. Jeffords' Regal Lily by a head at the end of the mile and a half. Mrs. Dodge Sloan's Handicuff and R. A. Moore's Piccolo finished far behind to complete the field of five.

Isolator, carrying only 108 pounds to Seabiscuit's 128, ran the distance in 2:31 to earn $4,300 for his owner. He paid 6 to 1. Regal Lily was 8 to 5 to place.

LEPINE IS COACH

NEW HAVEN—Alfred (Phil) Lepine, veteran centre of Montreal Canadiens, was named coach of New Haven Eagles of the International-American Hockey League yesterday by Nathan Podoloff, general manager. The Canadiens will maintain the Eagles as a farm club here this season. Lepine succeeds Billy Couti.

Vancouver Professional One Stroke Behind Neil Christian at Halfway Mark in P.N.W. Golf

SEATTLE—Neil Christian, Yakima professional and three times holder of the Pacific Northwest open golf crown, yesterday made a strong bid for his fourth title but found a pair of fellow professionals, one from Canada and the other from Oregon, hard on his heels after a day of superb performances.

Christian had eight birdies and six one-putt greens on his afternoon round as he tackled a smashing 65 to a morning 72, to wind up the first 36 holes of the 72-hole tourney with 137 strokes, seven under par.

Right behind the leader of 95 shotmakers at the halfway mark were Stan Leonard of Vancouver, B.C., and Al Zimmerman of Portland. Leonard finished his early 18 holes in 71, one stroke under per-

J.B.A.A. SQUAD TO INVADE VANCOUVER

Local Rugger Battle Rowing Club Squad On Saturday

Victoria's new English rugby season will be unofficially ushered in on Saturday, when Coach Bert Buller and his J.B.A.A. crew invade Vancouver to take on that city's Rowing Club 15 in a match for the unofficial oarsmen's championship of British Columbia. It will be played at Brockton Point.

Buller has eight former "rep" players on his roster, and will also have the services of Joe Andrews, who played for U.B.C. last year, this season. Buller has called a number of workouts for his team, and already has the squad in pretty good shape.

The following players will make the trip Friday night: Doug Bray, Bob Mair, Campbell Forbes, Bert Simpson, Buzz Brown, Bill Halkett, Ken Buxton, Jack Ferguson, Tom Dalziel, Frank Doherty, George Langdon, Les Bridge, Fred Smith, Gordie Pettierew and Joe Andrews.

Golfers' Dream Tourney Opens

Pot of Gold Contest Starts at Fenway; 275 Pros Entered

NEW YORK (AP)—After some 20 years of day dreaming about a perfect golf tournament, William (Corn) Wallace has come up with an "angel" who's making it come to pass. A millionaire named George Murphy is offering the professionals their biggest chance at a cash bonanza since Baron Long and his free-spending pals stopped giving money away in $25,000 chunks at Agua Caliente, Mexico.

"Corn" Wallace's idea of a real tournament contrasts sharply with the United States Golf Association, his ex-employer. The U.S.G.A. figures the title is recompense enough for the pros in the United States open, and to some it is. Wallace's idea of a championship is a marathon duel with plenty of folding money at the end of the trial for the contestants, extra dollars for super-special shots, seats along the fairways and greens for cash customers, a stock exchange scoreboard, and a glorious week's outing for all concerned, with everything on the "cuff."

His millennium comes true today. Two hundred and seventy-five golfers, including every playing pro in the United States who had time and enough gasoline money to make the trip and four of Canada's best, start out on a five-day, 108-hole marathon over the Fenway Club layout. Counting the maximum that can be earned with straight 325-yard drives and tee shots within the six and eight foot circles, the total purse for the shindig is $22,000.

The Canadian teachers who will be in there matching power and artistry with most of the American topnotchers are Stan Horne of Ottawa, who recently successfully defended his Canadian P.G.A. title; wee Bobby Alston, Ottawa Scot; Bob Burns, Montreal, and Jules Hout, Quebec.

The open champions of Canada and the United States—Sammy Snead and Ralph Guldahl—are in the pack.

The underdogs held the upper hand today after initial games in the Coast Baseball League shapemoney playoffs for $10,000 in prize money.

Sacramento Senators, who wound up in third place in league standings at the end of the scheduled season, were outthrust 19 to 14 by the Los Angeles Angels, league pennant winners, but won the game, 10 to 6, by piling up an early lead.

San Francisco's Seals, who got into the playoffs by two percentage points, nicked Seattle Sud's pitching sensation, juvenile Freddie Hutchinson, for nine hits to win, 4 to 2.

Two Sacramento home runs helped the Senators win. Senators pushed over four runs in the fourth, one in the sixth, three more in the eighth and one in the ninth. Angels rallied in the last of the ninth to put over five runs on as many hits, but the Senators cut the uprising short.

Lou Koupal outpitched Hutchinson, but old Pard Ballou, the Seals' relief pitcher who has pulled more than a score of games out of the fire for them this season, was called upon in the eighth to put down a Seattle rally when Koupal lost control. A two-bagger by Frankie Hawkins which sent two runners home, gave San Francisco its margin of victory in the sixth inning.

MAJOR LEAGUES

Even the New York Yankees' record losing streak can't stir up much interest since the New Yorkers clinched the American League pennant. The fans won't be excited about the National League race until the teams come out from under their umbrellas and play some baseball. But in the meantime Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians are stirring up quite a lively pair of private battles.

Second place in the American League is their main stake and their leading representatives at the home plate, Jimmy Foxx and Earl Averill, are in the thick of the fight for the batting crown.

The Red Sox, returning to action yesterday after having had two straight doubleheaders washed out, regained a little lost ground by walloping St. Louis Browns in both ends of a bargain bill 12 to 8 and 7 to 2. The Indians took a single game from Washington 9 to 1. That left Boston one game ahead with about a dozen still to go. And the difference is where it counts most—the Indians have lost two more.

The only other game played saw the Yankees establish a new record for Joe McCarthy's managerial regime by losing their fifth straight game, a 5 to 4 decision to Chicago White Sox. It was the first time since McCarthy took charge in 1931 they had dropped so many in a row.

The entire National League program was rained out along with the Philadelphia Athletics. Detroit game in the American.

Drivers Unhurt In Two Accidents

Four persons escaped injury in two accidents reported to city police yesterday and this morning in which cars were damaged considerably.

Wilfred Watkins, 736 Courtney Street, and Dudley Brinkman, Queen Alexandra Solarium, were the drivers of cars in a collision at Stanley Avenue and Begbie Street about 3:30. After the impact the Watkins car collided with a car owned by W. J. Love, 1606 Stanley Avenue, parked at the roadside. Mr. Love's car was slightly damaged.

This morning about 7 cars driven by E. Wells, Derby Road, Saanich, and Arthur St. C. Doole, 732 Yates Street, were damaged when they collided at Yates and Blanshard Streets.

As played by the ancient Spartans, the game of football took place on a much larger field than is the modern practice. Although the teams had to be equal, they had no limit to the number of players on each team.

Ricardo Cortez and Wife Delighted With Holiday in Northwest

Ricardo Cortez, debonair star of the screen, is holidaying in Victoria today with his pretty blonde wife and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. E. Blue of Phoenix, Arizona.

The party crossed from Vancouver to Nanaimo on Monday and yesterday motored down the Island Highway to Victoria, registering at the Empress Hotel.

After breakfast this morning they went out to Butchart's Gardens and visited other spots on the Saanich Peninsula.

Although only 38 he celebrated that birthday in Vancouver on Monday—Cortez is a veteran of the screen. He has been in pictures for 21 years and is still starred in some of Hollywood's biggest releases.

Mr. and Mrs. Cortez lengthened their British Columbia holiday when they were told of the charms of Vancouver Island. They originally intended to be back at their home in Beverly Hills by now. But so captivated are they by Victoria that they will remain here a day or two. They voyaged north by water aboard the Danish freighter Malaya and expect to return south by airplane.

Another person in Victoria with a Hollywood interest is H. D. Niven of London, who is on his way home after a visit to the picture colony where he saw his younger brother, David Niven.

FIRE LOSSES AT MINIMUM

Fire losses in Victoria city continue to show a steady decline over the losses recorded last year, according to figures released today by Chief Alex Munroe's office.

Loss for the city to date this year is placed at $11,390 as compared with $67,376 for the same period in 1937. The last year's total included the $48,000 loss in the Post Office building but even with this deduction this year's figure is lower.

Last month the loss was $588.17. There were 71 fires but only five with loss. Six false alarms were given. In August last year the loss was $2,494.

His other winnings were in the following divisions: Junior yearling heifer, senior champion bull, cows, two to three years, four to five years and five years or over.

A. C. Leslie of Watrous, Saskatchewan, Canada, delighted big crowds yesterday when his fine six-horse team of Clydesdales gave exhibitions.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Eleven boys and five girls arrived in Vancouver today en route to Fairbridge Farm School on Vancouver Island, and were placed aboard a coastal vessel for Nanaimo, B.C., after a short visit here.

The party was in charge of Robert Penderleith of Birmingham, England, and his daughter, Jean.

Vancouver people registering at the Empress Hotel today include Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Irwine and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Eades. Mrs. Charles Longstreth of Coronado Beach, an annual visitor to the city, is also here.

He will interview firms interested in trade with his territory, which includes Transvaal, Orange Free State, the Rhodesia, Portuguese East Africa, Mozambique and Nyasaland.

The annual meeting of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held next Tuesday evening at 6:30 in Hudson's Bay dining room. It will be a supper affair. Girls Eager for Air Positions

But No More Needed, Says T-C-A Official Operations Manager

REGINA (CP) — Inauguration of passenger service on the Winnipeg-Vancouver lap of TransCanada Airlines system will await completion of four new radio range stations in the Rocky Mountains, Philip G. Johnson, T.C.A. vice-president and operations manager, declared in an interview here.

Mr. Johnson, who flew here from Winnipeg, is accompanied by D. B. Colyer, his assistant, and George G. Wakeham, general traffic manager. He will visit Vancouver.

Mr. Johnson did not anticipate any passenger service between Winnipeg and Montreal this year. He said he was being flooded with applications from girls seeking positions as airline hostesses now that two are employed on the Vancouver-Seattle run, but explained "no more will be needed for some time... not until we get our western passenger service operating."

WINNIPEG — Completing the fleet of TransCanada Airlines aircraft, two new Lockheed 14's CF-TCL and CF-TCM, winged their way from California to Vancouver late Tuesday and today were expected to take off on the remaining leg of the ferry trip to Winnipeg.

Their arrival boosted the number of TCA 14's to 10 and filled the order placed last year with the Lockheed factory at Burbank. Five Electras, smaller craft of Lockheed manufacture and the airline's inception, are to be sent into service over the various feeder lines connecting in both east and west with the main line route served by the huge 14's.

Crown Upheld on Market Act Point

Appeal Against Quashing of Conviction Against A. Ritchie Allowed

The Crown's appeal against a judgment by Judge J. D. Swanson at Kelowna, which quashed conviction of Andrew Ritchie on a charge of operating a packing house without a license, was allowed by the Court of Appeal here today.

The decision of the court today set aside the County Court judge's ruling and re-established a fine of $50 assessed against Ritchie together with costs imposed by a magistrate prior to the County Court appeal.

The charge arose over alleged violation of the terms of the B.C. Natural Products Marketing Act.

In argument yesterday, Senator J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., appearing for the Crown appellant, summarized the incident over which the case arose. The accused had packed his fruit and paid a fee to the Hollywood Company, fruit packers and shippers, for shipment of the Ritchie produce. His actions were in defiance of the marketing regulations, counsel claimed.

W. R. Long, for the respondent, sought to establish that special permission had been given to Ritchie by a member of the board permitting him to avoid payment of a special license fee of $500 under the board's regulation.

NOT REAL PACKING HOUSE

Ritchie, counsel said, had partially prepared his fruit in a small building which, while used for packing, was not a commercial packing plant. Only his own produce had been partially prepared there, Mr. Long contended.

The agreement, which he argued was tantamount to an exemption ruling, had been given verbally by the official of the board, he said.

Mr. Long further claimed Ritchie had paid the levy of 1 1/2 cents per box to the Hollywood Company for shipment, and actually operated as part of the Hollywood Company.

The Chief Justice raised question over the ability of one member of the board to commit the entire board on an exemption ruling.

Senator Farris contended there was no evidence to show an arrangement had been made between Ritchie and a member of the board.

ALLOW APPEAL

The Chief Justice declared the appeal allowed and the fine restored. He disagreed with the grounds on which Judge Swanson had quashed conviction, stating he could not hold with the Swanson explanation of natural justice nor the grounds that the board had acted illegally in attempting to do indirectly what it could not do directly.

Expressing agreement Mr. Justice Macdonald stated, counsel had conceded Ritchie had operated his own packing house and could not do so without a license unless granted an exemption. The evidence of an exemption was not strong enough to convince the court.

Mr. Justice McQuarrie agreed with allowance of the appeal, stating he failed to see why Ritchie had paid fees to the Hollywood Company in excess of what was required unless there was some undisclosed agreement between the two.

Mr. Justice Sloan supported Mr. Justice Macdonald in his reasons and Mr. Justice O'Halloran concurred in allowing the appeal.

MORALS SLIPPING, SPEAKER CLAIMS

Standards Lower Today, Frank Paulding Tells Young People

A warning against the easy way and the easy life was given by Frank Paulding, Y.M.C.A. secretary, at a meeting of the Metropolitan Young People's Society last night at the Metropolitan Church.

"There was never a time in the history of the world when we were more in danger of losing our liberty than we are at the present time," said the speaker. "In alcohol, Sunday observance, and sex, the standards today are lower than they were a generation ago."

The youth of the church must take up the challenge or civilization would become submerged. The altruistic instinct of humanity must be utilized.

The speaker was thanked by Bill Anderson.

Other Young People's Associations represented at the rally were Oak Bay, James Bay, Metropolitan, Chinese, Wilkinson Road, Victoria West, Fairfield, St. Aidan's, Belmont, Esquimalt, Centennial and First United.

Welcome was extended to the visitors by L. Cannon, president of the Metropolitan Young People's Society.

A song service was conducted by B. Dymond.

During the devotional section of the rally, Miss Iris Smith sang the selections, "The Lord's Prayer," and "My Task," accompanied on the piano by Miss May Hick.

Others contributing to the program were Miss Phyllis Deaville, Miss Peggy Walton and Jack Townsend. Maquinn Daniels, Helen Reilly and Charlton Porter were the accompanists. Miss Faye Smith of the Oak Bay society, played several numbers on the accordion.

Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Miss Lillian Braithwaite. The program committee was composed of G. Enoch, Gordon Robinson and Hazel McPhee. Dorothy Howard was in charge of promotion work.

Local Police Are Praised

Not Only Policemen, But Gentlemen, English Paper Quotes Seattle Visitor

Victoria received a front page column in an edition of the Staffordshire Weekly Sentinel, a copy of which has just been received here.

The column was the widely-read "Staffordshire Knots," by "Loophole," and it told of a letter received by the paper from William Bennett of Seattle, a former resident of the English "potteries."

Mr. Bennett made his first trip to Victoria this summer and so impressed was he by the city that he wrote a long account of his visit.

Mr. Bennett's letter, in part, said "although a busy seaport, Victoria was everywhere quiet and orderly—Parliament House, a noble-looking structure with a handsome statue of the beloved Queen Victoria. There was a museum and art gallery in the building, and it is claimed that the collection has a specimen of every known animal, bird and reptile in the great Canadian Northwest."

"Most of the shops are quaint looking, but homely little places, where one is warmly received—there is no traffic noise, not even from heavy trucks. There are no traffic signs, red and green 'stop' and 'go' and accidents are very rare; a vehicle driver is supposed to know traffic law and to respect it rigidly."

The police of Victoria come in for a special pat on the back from Mr. Bennett, who said in his letter "they are a sturdy, upstanding bunch of fellows and are glad to be of service, especially to visitors. They are not just policemen, but also gentlemen."

Roosevelt Man Wins Nomination

James H. Fay Defeats O'Connor in New York Primary

WASHINGTON (AP)—The defeat of Representative John O'Connor for Democratic re-nomination in New York gave President Roosevelt today his first and only victory in his personal campaign against four United States Democratic legislators.

Mr. Roosevelt's sole triumph was not complete, however, because O'Connor will be on the November ballot, having won the Republican nomination by 1,000 votes over Allen W. Dulles.

The President tried and failed previously to prevent the return of three Democratic Senators whom he classed as conservatives—George of Georgia, Smith of Carolina and Tydings of Maryland.

O'Connor lost the Democratic nomination for the seat he held since 1923 to James H. Fay, New Dealer, who narrowly missed defeating him four years ago. The complete vote gave Fay 8,352 and O'Connor 7,799.

O'Connor, chairman of the powerful house rules committee, attributed his defeat to election "dishonesty," and hinted he would seek a recount.

Primaries were also held yesterday in Massachusetts, New Jersey and Wisconsin.

IL DUCE WANTS RIGHTS SETTLED

Proposes Other Minorities In Czech Territory Besides Sudetens Be Satisfied

TREVISIO, Italy (AP)—Premier Mussolini, in his fourth speech this week on the critical European situation, re-emphasized his demand that the solution of the crisis in Czechoslovakia should not be limited to the Sudeten Germans, but be "integral."

He advocated the rights of the Hungarian, Slovak, Polish, Ruthenian and Rumanian minorities in Czechoslovakia also be satisfied.

His mention of Czechoslovakia and a passing reference to the French brought prolonged jeers from the crowd.

"If Czechoslovakia is facing a situation which we may call delicate, it is because it was—we say, having in mind that a solution has been reached—not merely Czechoslovakia but Czech-German, Magyar-Polish, Ruthenian-Slovakia. Il Duce asserted as the crowd roared with delight at his reply.

"I insist that since this problem has been faced we must settle it in integral fashion," Mussolini continued.

"At this moment the British Prime Minister, who took the political initiative, is directing the ship of peace into port."

Il Duce made his Treviso speech as he neared the close of his tour of Venetian provinces.

CZECH WOUNDED IN BORDER CLASH

Heinlein's Free Corps Raids Customs House at Weis

By MELVIN K. WHITE LEATHER

Associated Press Foreign Staff WEIS, Czechoslovakia (at the German Frontier)—A night raiding force of the Sudeten German Free Corps early today attacked the Czechoslovak customs house at Weis, three miles from Eger, seriously wounding one Czechoslovak soldier.

At least one of the raiders was believed wounded. At daylight Czechoslovak soldiers found one German rifle and some civilian hats at the scene of the raid. They said at least 35 of the Free Corps took part in the attack, in which some 15 shots were exchanged.

A detachment of 40 Czechoslovak soldiers, armed with hand grenades, arrived here two hours after the clash.

A Free Corps camp is reported located at Redwiz, 10 miles from Weis.

The attackers apparently intended to storm the customs house from two sides, but were surprised by a Czechoslovak border patrol. The Sudetens scattered after firing into the front door of the building and into bedrooms of customs officials.

It was the second day of Free Corps' raids along the German-Czechoslovak border. Three attacks on customs houses by parties from German territory were reported by the Prague government yesterday.

A treasury guard who escaped injury in the volley which seriously injured a Czechoslovak soldier in today's raid thus described the attack to me:

"The soldier and I were patrolling in the woods behind the customs house. We heard a noise, then shouted, 'Halt!'"

"The Sudetens replied with about eight shots, one of which wounded the soldier. My comrade fell. I replied with four shots. The attackers scattered."

"Simultaneously another group fired into the customs house."

(CP)—Trial of Charles and Simon Gun-Noot, sons of an Indian who was the object of a police search for 13 years in the British Columbia interior, today stood adjourned until September 22. They appeared before a police court magistrate here yesterday on charges of robbing C. Hannanwald's Bear Lake, B.C., trading post and were remanded.

Meanwhile, police sought David, brother of Simon and Charles, who is also charged with the robbery last May of the trading post 100 miles north of here.

HUNGARIANS WANT TERRITORY BACK

BUDAPEST (AP)—Hungarian Nazis and members of other political parties joined today in a giant demonstration demanding return to Hungary of territories given to Czechoslovakia at the end of the Great War.

An estimated 250,000 Hungarians taking part in the demonstration swore they would not rest until territorial revision was accomplished.

The demonstrators, armed with hand grenades, arrived here two hours after the clash.

A Free Corps camp is reported located at Redwiz, 10 miles from Weis.

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP)—Lack of aggressive overseas demand for Canadian wheat to offset selling surpluses today caused Winnipeg wheat futures to close 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents lower, October at 60 1/2, November 60 1/2, December 60 1/2, and May 63 1/2 to 63 3/4 cents.

Prices slumped around two cents for the third successive session. Business failed to develop on a large scale due to tendency of traders to await European political developments.

After opening firm, futures gradually fell off despite export of 400,000 bushels of Canadian wheat.

Liverpool closed 1 1/2 higher to 1 1/2 lower. Some improvement in English wheat buying was reported.

Chicago averaged a cent or more lower and Buenos Aires moved narrowly and at noon was unchanged to 1/2 cent down.

Cash wheat demand continued slow with exporters and mills taking small quantities of Nos. 2 and 4 Northern. Spreads generally were unchanged.

Coarse grains eased major fractions in sympathy with weakness of wheat. Light speculative buying from southern sources steadied barley and rye futures most of the session.

Late Recoveries

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street found the stock market's sensitivity to European news dulled a bit today and reports the Czech government had accepted the British-French proposals excited only a short-lived buying flurry.

However, relief at what appeared to have been a narrow escape from an immediate large scale war in Europe still found expression in a leaning toward the buying side. Near the finish most stocks retained gains of fractions to around a point after yielding part of their winnings in a noisy forenoon flourish of buying touched off by financial ticker flashes that the Czechs had capitulated.

Considering the breadth of the recovery, which had restored about half the losses during recent war-frightened selling, many traders hastened to take advantage of the early bulge to cash paper profits.

Elsewhere on trading fronts, the fading of war alarms also was accompanied by a decline in speculative interest and fluctuations narrowed. Cotton near the close was 10 to 25 cents a bale down. Wheat again slipped with the receding war tumult, ending 1 to 1 1/4 cents a bushel down in Chicago. Corn was off 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents.

Czech bonds broke widely on prospect the little republic's economic resources would be curtailed appreciably after partition of its territory but foreign and domestic issues held their ground with stocks.

Dean of Shipping Honored

Transportation Men of Victoria Make Presentation to William M. Allan On His Retirement

Return From Europe Tour

After a 5,000 motor tour through Europe, Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Yarrow and their two daughters return to their home in Victoria yesterday afternoon.

They saw a great deal of European countries that are now in the news.

The countries ruled by dictators, Italy and Germany, Mr. Yarrow said, were orderly, well organized and clean, while France seemed a little dilapidated and down-at-heel and generally "in need of a coat of paint."

Mr. Yarrow praised the roads of Italy, which he said were among the finest in the world. He said Italy was a tourist paradise where everyone was out to capture the tourist industry in a large way. Special terms were given at hotels, a tourist lira sold at an attractive low rate, and there was a 70 per cent reduction on gasoline for visitors. The government made up the rates to the various dealers, who gave reduced prices to visitors.

In Italy, Mr. Yarrow found, there was very little unemployment, although wages were low. Austria is now in the throes of changing German habits and customs. All articles there are priced both in German and Austrian money. Mr. Yarrow said he believed the young people of Austria were delighted to be part of Germany, but the older people were not quite so pleased at the change.

In Germany they saw many soldiers, but noticed kindness on the part of the people to foreigners. Mr. and Mrs. Yarrow and their daughters left here in April. They crossed the Atlantic on the homeward voyage by Ss. Duchess of Richmond and spent a few days in eastern Canada before returning to Victoria.

A happy gathering, typical of the comradery that exists among transportation men, was held in the former American Mail Line offices in the Belmont Building yesterday afternoon, when William M. (Billy) Allan, dean of transportation in Victoria, was honored by his business conferees on the occasion of his retirement into private life.

Many such gatherings in years past have been presided over by Mr. Allan, the veteran of them all, and it was but natural that the reception tendered him yesterday was fully representative of the transportation life of the community.

Amid a barrage of compliments testifying to his good qualities, Mr. Allan was presented with a wallet well stocked with money as a token of esteem from his many friends, the presentation being made by Charles F. Earle, Canadian National district passenger agent, on behalf of the members of the shipping fraternity.

In friendly phraseology, Mr. Earle spoke of the happy associations that had existed between Mr. Allan and his conferees throughout his 40 years of business activity in the city, and closed his eulogy by wishing him long life, health and happiness.

"Government Street won't be the same without you," Mr. Earle concluded, referring to Transportation Row.

Leslie C. Pelling, manager of the Island Steamship Company, spoke feelingly of his 30 years' association with Mr. Allan, from the days in 1907 at Rihets and through the Pacific Steamship and American Mail agencies.

Other speakers were: Capt. R. W. McMurray, manager of the B.C. Coast Service, Canadian Pacific Railway, Harry T. Barnes of Rihet Consolidated Ltd.; Alex. McDermott, Ocean Stevedoring Company; Anthony Genn and Capt. E. Kelly, superintendent of the Rihet ocean docks.

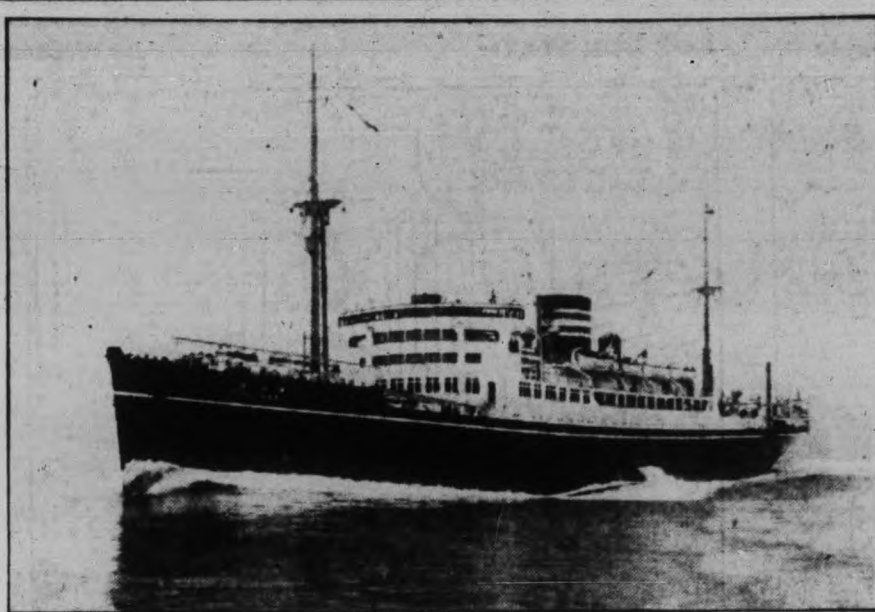

LASTING FRIENDSHIPS
Mr. Allan was visibly affected as he responded.

Reminiscently, he traced his lengthy and pleasurable association with the maritime development of the port of Victoria, referred in sentimental vein to the many and lasting friendships he had formed, and, in expressing his regret at "stepping out," assured those present that he was by no means breaking loose from his old associations, and would always be willing to give counsel and the benefit of his experience to the youthful members of the fraternity.

Led by James Macfarlane, Canadian Pacific district passenger agent, the assembled friends heartily sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and gave three cheers and a tiger.

Letters conveying greetings and the spirit of good fellowship were read by Mr. Macfarlane from absent friends, including C. W. Meldrum, Great Northern general passenger agent, Seattle; William R. (Bill) Dale, former G.N. agent here, and now export and import agent at Seattle; H. A. Hebb, general agent for the G.N. in Vancouver, and formerly of Victoria; C. A. (Pete) White, manager of the White Star-Cunard Line at Vancouver, and Guy Langton.

Those attending the affair included: Capt. R. W. McMurray, Alex. McDermott, Leslie C. Pelling, manager of the Island Steamship Company; Harry T. Barnes, James Macfarlane, C. F. Earle, Capt. E. Kelly, Harry Douglas, general agent, Great Northern and N.Y.K.; A. C. Stickley, general agent, Northern Pacific; Eric Marshall, agent for Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and United Air Lines; Walter Miles, ticket agent for Union Steamship Company of B.C. and Northwest Air Lines; John Hickey, manager, Canadian Pacific Telegraphs; Todd Murray of the Empire Stevedoring Company; Fred R. Wells, city ticket agent, Canadian Pacific Railway; Charles E. (Bud) Blaney, C.P.R. traveling passenger agent; Austin Curtis, city ticket agent, Canadian National Railways; Waldo Skillings, Cecil F. Armistead, C.P.R. district freight agent; Frank Mulliner, C.P.R. baggage agent; Duncan McTavish, president of the B.C. Agricultural Association; William (Bill) Harold, Great Northern ticket agent; Anthony Genn, H. E. Calwell and Sam Eastman.

DRIVES ASHORE IN FOG AT SEATTLE—Ms. Hikawa Maru, of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, which passed through quarantine here on completing her voyage from the Orient yesterday morning, went aground in a heavy fog at 5:30 this morning off West Light on Magnolia Bluff, at Seattle. The ship was believed in no danger. Two tugs, the Active and the Neptune, went to her aid, and it was hoped to refloat her at high tide. The lighthouse keeper at West Point reported the fog so thick the vessel could not be seen, but the tugs could be heard at work offshore. Hikawa Maru, with 61 passengers aboard, sailed from Vancouver last night for Seattle.

Around the DocksASSUMES DUTIES

Harold Devine has assumed his duties as ticket clerk in the local ticket office of the Canadian National Railways, having been transferred from the Vancouver office, where he acted as cashier.

Mr. Devine has had a number of years' service with the passenger department of Canadian National Railways, having joined the company at Winnipeg where he was employed in the depot ticket office. In 1929 he was transferred to Vancouver.

B.C. Surveyor Hurt in Wilds

Ernest Lamarque Flown to Hospital After Fall From Scow

PRINCE GEORGE B.C. (CP)—Ernest Lamarque, 58-year-old Vancouver surveyor, was in hospital here today recovering from bruises and shock suffered yesterday when he fell 40 feet from the deck of a freight scow on the Umevia River and the scow passed over him.

The water in the river was so shallow he was rolled over and over on the bottom by the scow. He was rescued by fellow passengers at the back of the scow and taken to Germansen Landing, 150 miles north of here.

Canadian Airways at Port St. James was notified and Pilot Russ Baker was sent to take the injured man to hospital. Baker bucked fog and rain through the 100-mile flight and had difficulty in locating the seaplane landing at Germansen.

On his way south after picking up Lamarque the pilot fought through fog and rain and at one time it took him one and a half hours to cover 30 miles.

Baker landed here in semi-darkness. Lamarque, surveyor for the British Columbia Public Works Department, had been employed on a road construction project from Old Hogem to Alken Lake, about 160 miles northwest of here, and was returning to Germansen Landing when the accident occurred.

Dr. C. Ewert said today he expected the injured man to be discharged from hospital within a few days.

The department has been reorganized to take care of the added responsibilities when the board's jurisdiction is extended to cover water and air traffic.

W. E. Campbell, chief traffic officer, becomes director of traffic. Mr. Kirk and F. R. Harvey, former assistant chief traffic officer, becomes assistant directors. Mr. Kirk, it is expected, will specialize on water traffic.

The board now has under its jurisdiction railway, telephone, express, telegraph and international bridge traffic. When the entire transport act is proclaimed, water and air traffic will be added. CRESTON, B.C. (CP)—Fourteen cars of a heavy Canadian Pacific Railway freight loaded with lead and zinc concentrates left the rails six miles west of this Kootenay town yesterday and tied up traffic on the Crow line.
